P.G.E. Engine Breaks Through Bridge

Three Men of Train Crew Die In Wreck North of Lillooet

Passenger Coaches and Freight Cars Remain on Track After Locomotive Plunges Through Bridge Weakened By Spring Flood

INJURED BRAKEMAN IS BROUGHT SOUTH

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 29.—Three members of the train crew were killed and a fourth seriously injured when a Pacific Great Eastern locomotive crashed through bridge 130, ten miles north of Lillooet, at 10.30 yesterday evening. No passengers were injured.

The killed were: Minor G. Bazley, engineer, Squamish; J. R. Duncan, fireman, Squamish; H. P. Cumming, brakeman, Vancouver.

FIRST SERIOUS ACCIDENT

It was the first serious accident in the history of the Pacific Great Eastern, according to officials of the line. The accident was caused by a wash-out which had undermined several of the bridge footings. The locomotive, a 100-ton passenger engine, and freight train went through the weakened structure, but none of the passenger coaches left the track.

The train left Squamish northbound for Quesnel at noon yesterday.

The bridge crosses the main highway between Lillooet and Clinton, which recent floods and washouts had made impassable.

DAUGHTERS IN TRAIN

A sad feature of the wreck was the fact that two of Mr. Cumming's daughters, Jean, aged fifteen, and Ellen, aged thirteen, were passengers on the train. They had left Vancouver on Monday to visit their father, who made his headquarters at Williams Lake during the Easter holidays.

Mr. Bazley and Mr. Duncan were making their first trip on the Monday train. They were relieving the regular crew, whose members are on holiday.

The locomotive and the four cars dropped from the bridge into the narrow valley through which the high-way passes. The engineer and firemen were unable to save the train.

BORN IN ONTARIO

Mr. Cumming, the Vancouver victim of the tragedy, was born in Gillingham, Ont., fifty-two years ago. He resided in Edmonton for a short period before moving to Revelstoke, where he was employed by the Canadian Pacific Railway for nine years.

Besides the widow, he is survived by six sons, Robert, twenty-nine, of Toronto; Stewart, twenty-six, of Williams Lake; Peter, twenty-one, of Vancouver; Archie, eighteen, of Seattle; and three daughters, Anna Jean, Ellen and Christine, nine, of Vancouver.

New Boat Report In Lindbergh Baby Hunt

Associated Press
Baltimore, Md., March 29.—Charles H. Consovo, president of a Baltimore hotel corporation, has been asked to take the three Norfolk-Virginia intermediaries in the Lindbergh baby abduction case out to the twelve-mile limit in the Atlantic Ocean to meet the person holding Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., according to Mrs. Consovo.

Mrs. Consovo said she had talked by telephone with her husband in Norfolk and that he had told her arrangements had been made to take the baby, the Marcon, with Dean Harold Dobson-Pearcock, John Hughes Curtis and Rear-Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, aboard to meet the abductors.

"The abductors are supposed to be in a boat twelve miles out," Mrs. Consovo said. "My husband told me he understood they would be waiting there. The trip was supposed to begin this morning. I have heard nothing to indicate it was called off."

HOPES DWINDLE

Hopewell, N.J., March 29.—Hope the Lindbergh baby would be sent home before the month's end ended today. Very Rev. H. Dobson-Pearcock, former Canadian rector, of Richmond, Va., who risked his life yesterday for an hour's talk with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, said he would probably confer again with the flying colonel in three or four days.

ALBERTA TOWN SCENE OF FIRE

Six Buildings in Hussar Destroyed; Total Loss Is Put at $100,000

Blaze Fought By Hussar Citizens and Men From Other Towns

Canadian Press
Hussar, Alta., March 29.—Fire raged through this southern Alberta town early this morning, destroying six buildings and threatening to wipe out the remaining structures. The conflagration, the origin of which is unknown, caused losses estimated at $100,000.

A drug store, two grocery stores, the Masonic Hall, a cafe and a hotel fell prey to the flames. The blaze, it was believed, started in one of the grocery stores and spread to adjoining buildings rapidly.

All the men folk of Hussar and volunteers from nearby towns of Bassano, Rockyford and Standard fought the fire for several hours before they could bring it under control. Only the great efforts of the firefighters saved the town from complete destruction.

GEN. CLARK STILL CRITICALLY ILL

Vancouver, March 29.—The condition of Brig.-Gen. R. P. Clark, critically ill in the Vancouver General Hospital, was reported "unchanged" this afternoon.

COLD STORAGE PLANT BURNED

Warehouse at North Sydney, N.S., Also Destroyed By Fire After Explosion

Canadian Press
North Sydney, N.S., March 29.—Fire which followed an explosion destroyed the $250,000 cold storage plant of Leonard Bros. and an adjacent warehouse of Thompson & Sutherland here early this morning.

The explosion, so far not explained, occurred about 2.30 o'clock, and within an hour the large storage plant, the only one in eastern Cape Breton, was a mass of flames.

William Standing, watchman at the cold storage plant, was struck by a falling timber and suffered serious injuries to his spine.

Destruction of the plant dealt a severe blow to fishermen of this district, who have depended on the Leonard Bros. bait supply and marketing facilities.

Burglars Said Joke On Them

Frowlers Find Nothing in Cash Register at Meat Market and Leave Pertinent Note.

Amateur burglars with a sense of humor broke into the New England Meat Market, Yates Street, yesterday evening, ransacked the cash register and left without any loot.

On a bench at the rear of the shop they left a note: "You are lucky. Excuse us, it pays."

On a stairway of the shop the police this morning found a rusty toy pistol. The burglary was discovered about 5.30 o'clock this morning by a constable on his rounds.

Bailey's Garage, 720 View Street, was also broken into yesterday evening. Entry being made through a rear window. The cash drawer was wrenched off, but there was nothing in it. A night watchman discovered the open window at 3.30 o'clock this morning and reported to the police.

Plane Tuned For Pacific Flight Crashes At New York; Pilot Killed

Associated Press
New York, March 29.—Capt. Y. Nagaya, Japanese flier, was killed shortly after 10.30 o'clock this forenoon when his airplane crashed in the water between the Floyd Bennett Airport and Mill Basin, Brooklyn.

Capt. Nagaya had taken off in the plane with difficulty. The cause of the accident could not be immediately determined.

The plane was a Bellanca aboard which Capt. Nagaya and Sergeant K. Ashai planned to make a transpacific flight. It was delivered last week. Ashai was not in the plane when it crashed.

The above picture of the monoplane was taken about a week ago while it was being groomed at the Floyd Bennett Field. Capt. Nagaya and Sgt. Ashai planned to attempt a transpacific flight to win the $25,000 prize put up by a Tokyo newspaper for a flight between Tokyo and the United States, either way. The prize offer has been standing for a year.

Closure Rule Put On Relief Debate

Heenan Speaks Under Restrictions Bennett and Supporters Vote For Commons; Division To-Morrow Morning

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 29.—Closure was applied this afternoon on the debate on the government's resolution to extend the Unemployment and Farm Relief Act of last session till May 1. By a vote of eighty-three to forty, the House adopted a motion of Premier Bennett which will have the effect of forcing a division by 2 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Notice of the motion was given last Wednesday, the last day the House was in session before the Easter recess. Debate on the relief proposals has been proceeding intermittently since the first of the month.

THE DIVISION
In the division to-day, the Liberals as a body opposed the closure motion. They were joined by two Laborites, A. A. Heaps and Humphrey Mitchell, and by E. J. Garland, U.F.A., Bow River. The Conservatives, voted solidly for the motion and were joined by the majority of the United Farmers.

HEENAN SPEAKS
Hon. Peter Heenan, Liberal, Kenora-Rainy River, former Minister of Labor, then resumed debate on the relief proposal.

All speeches until the vote materializes will be limited to twenty minutes.

HOUSE BACKS U.S. TAX BILL

All U.S. Party Leaders Support Committee Measure For Balancing Budget

Associated Press
Washington, March 29.—The House of Representatives and its leaders, Democrat, Republican and Independent alike, pledged themselves today to the passage of a non-partisan tax bill to balance the budget.

Responding to a call by Speaker Garner for those members to stand who would support such a policy, virtually the entire membership arose with a vigorous outburst of applause. Very few remained seated.

MINORITY PARTY SUPPORT
A few minutes later Representative Snell of New York, the Republican leader, gave his word the minority party members would back the Speaker and the programme of the ways and means committee.

Then came the leaders of the opposition to the sales tax, La. Guardsman, free-speaking Republican from New York, and Rankin of Mississippi and Doughton of North Carolina, Democrats, to offer their support to the new rates brought in by the committee.

These called for an increase in postage and numerous special taxes, as well as levies on sales of stocks, bonds and real estate, to replace the $600,000,000 cut out of the revenue bill by defeat of the sales tax.

BRITAIN NOW HAS SURPLUS

One of Few Countries of the World to Pay Way During Fiscal Year 1931-32

Income Tax and Taxpayers' Public Spirit Responsible For Balanced Budget

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION, Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, March 29.—It was established to-day as certain there would be a small surplus in the national accounts when they close on March 31, and Great Britain will thus be one of the few countries in the world able to say it has paid its way in the last year. But it took a couple of emergency budgets and the best spirit on the part of the taxpayers and public servants.

The hero of the occasion is undoubtedly the income tax, which was not only paid up but paid up promptly. The taxpayers' grim sacrifices saved the whole situation. Since December 31, British income taxpayers have parted with more than $200,000,000.

The revised treasury estimate of £272,000,000 has already been accepted and total collections are likely to nearer £290,000,000. Anyhow, it will be the biggest collection since the crisis of 1922-23, when the rate was also five shillings the pound sterling, or 25 per cent.

There is also every indication the surplus payable by persons with incomes exceeding £2,000 will yield even more than the estimate for death duties, one reason being the abnormally low rate of mortality among millionaires lately.

In brief, next Thursday's figures of the end of Britain's fiscal year will show the new tax has been more productive than the treasury anticipated, and the economies have been more effective than expected.

MANY DEMANDS EXPECTED
The London Daily Herald, organ of the Labor opposition, puts the surplus at £40,000,000 and £50,000,000, and says it will probably endanger the unity of the cabinet because demands are going to come from all sides for its disposal.

The common prediction the government will take sixpence off the income tax, making it 22½ per cent instead of 25 per cent—seems certain to be realized, although it is expected the Chancellor of the Exchequer will continue to ask that three-quarters of the tax be paid at the beginning of the year following that for which it is payable, instead of restoring the old fifty-fifty basis between January and July.

TEACHERS' SALARIES
A strong demand is arising for the restoration of the unemployment benefits to the old rates, and the teachers with an eagle eye on the budget surplus, want the reductions in their salaries taken off. At their conference they declared that while they will press their claims with determination and dignity, they feel the manner in which the cuts were made in September caused deep and justifiable resentment.

WILL SUBMIT LOAN BY-LAW

Assent Given City's Private Bill; Measure Goes to Council Friday

Victoria's loan by-law to provide for borrowing of $500,000 to cover unemployment relief costs will be introduced in the City Council at a special meeting next Friday afternoon prior to the regular session of the public works committee.

Notification has been received at the City Hall that royal assent was given the city's private bill, passed by the Legislature last week.

After the by-law has received a majority vote of the City Council it will be voted upon by the ratifiers. Date for the referendum probably will be set next week.

Bredner, commissioner of customs, from the Dominion civil service would be announced at the end of the month. It was said T. H. Bredner, collector of customs at Toronto, would either succeed Mr. Bredner or be named to the proposed new post.

The Department of National Revenue issued a denial of the accuracy of the report and Mr. Bredner said he knew nothing of it.

BAGLEY REPORT LED TO FIGHT

Vancouver Police, After Tussle, Return Escaped Inmate to Mental Hospital

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 29.—One of the scores of rumors and "tips" received by police about William Bagley, escaped convict, who shot and killed a Burnaby late Saturday evening, resulted in a pitched battle between officers and a deranged man in a bush near Boundary Road and the Great Northern Railway tracks.

Answering a call to the district last night, a squad of Vancouver police located the man, who bore some resemblance to Bagley. He refused to submit to questioning and attacked the police with an axe. He was subdued after a tussle during which he received injuries from police clubs.

The man proved to be an escaped inmate of the Esquimalt mental hospital who had been at large since January 1. He was removed to the General Hospital for treatment before being returned to Esquimalt.

NEW U.S. AUTO TAX PLANNED

Washington, March 29.—The House voted to-day a manufacturing levy on automobiles, motorcycles, trucks and accessories to yield $37,000,000 in the year.

A 3 per cent tax was imposed on automobiles and motorcycles, 2 per cent on trucks and 1 per cent on accessories.

Scores of Reports Traced Down In Search For Man Who Shot Burnaby Guard

ST. LAWRENCE AGREEMENT SOON

Canadian Press
Toronto, March 29.—Intimation that an agreement regarding the St. Lawrence waterway is expected shortly was contained in the proposition speech of Sir William Mackenzie, Chief Justice and administrator of Ontario, who to-day officially ended the third session of the eighteenth Legislative Assembly of the province.

"My ministers expect shortly to arrive at an agreement with the federal authority in relation to the construction of a joint seaway and power development in the international section of the St. Lawrence River," the speech said.

MINNEAPOLIS BANK ROBBED

Seven Bandits With Sub-machine Guns Line Up 24 Persons

Cash Taken Totals $50,000 and Securities $125,000; Get Away in Auto

Associated Press
Minneapolis, March 29.—Seven bandits, four carrying sub-machine guns, held up twenty-four persons in an outlying bank here to-day and escaped with $50,000 in cash, $125,000 in securities left for safekeeping and an undetermined amount left for collateral and loans.

One customer was slugged as the North American branch of the Northwestern National Bank was looted of the largest amount taken by bank robbers in Minnesota history. E. W. Decker, president of the Northwestern National, announced the loss.

Eighteen officials and employees and six customers were forced to lie on the floor, after the bandits had threatened to shoot them unless J. A. Kunz, manager, opened the vault.

CLEARED VAULT OUT
They cleared the vault of virtually all the cash and negotiable securities and also took non-negotiables. They fled in an automobile after using one car as a decoy to attract the attention of a policeman on a nearby corner.

The police drove to the bank, one of the largest financial institutions outside the downtown district.

A hat lost by a bandit in flight furnished police their only clue. It bore a Joliet, Ill., haberdasher's label.

"They say it was so unimportant that it was not worth while asking the New Westminster police to guard the Fraser River Bridge—yet it was important enough to have two officers drive from Vancouver to Woodward's Landing," The New Westminster police were not officially notified until 11 p.m. Saturday," said Mr. Gray, who as mayor is chairman of the New Westminster police commission.

"I will have more to say later. Meanwhile, I am going to demand an inquiry," he said.

Shanghai Negotiators Report Little Headway

By Morris J. Harris, Associated Press Staff Correspondent
Shanghai, March 29.—First of the major obstacles which have confronted the negotiators for a Japanese-Chinese truce was cleared away to-day when a definite agreement was reached on the section of the proposals dealing with cessation of hostilities.

But in spite of that achievement, reached just before the conference adjourned until Thursday, the negotiators appeared to be practically as far apart as ever. We have made no headway on the important issues," Qu Tai-chi, chief of the Chinese delegation, said after to-day's conference.

The sniping problem was one of the hurdles that had to be leaped in achieving the agreement on ending hostilities, however, and the negotiators expressed the belief to-day that sniping would subside as soon as a truce agreement was signed.

Withdrawal of the Japanese troops, the great stumbling block to all peace efforts heretofore, was no nearer settlement.

The adjournment was taken to give an opportunity to both sides again to refer matters to their respective governments.

PESSIMISM AT TOKIO

Tokio, March 29.—Differences between the Japanese and Chinese at Shanghai over the question of withdrawal of the Japanese army, forged by Burnaby late Saturday evening, resulted in a pessimistic outlook for the peace conference there, in the opinion of official quarters here to-day.

The tendency among officials was to lay the blame on the Chinese for not accepting the Japanese proposal for partial withdrawal of troops. They said the Japanese had offered to bring the army back to a line roughly marked by the towns of Wooning, Kiangwan and Chapel. The Chinese, they said, especially objected to the continued occupation of Wooning.

A telegram to the Foreign Office from Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese Minister to China, said there were now 30,000 Japanese troops there, with 5,000 horses, 150 guns and 50 airplanes.

FALL OF SNOW IS WELCOMED BY FARMERS OF PRAIRIES

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, March 29.—Snow fell on 20,000 square miles of prairie wheat-producing country overnight, and highways in central Manitoba were blocked this morning. Agriculturalists considered the snowfall would be of particular advantage to owners of farm lands in this province. From seven to eleven inches fell in Manitoba.

DETECTIVE MAXWELL LIES IN HOSPITAL

Police May Be Able to Find "Hide-out" in Vancouver Outskirts Used By Bagley and Fawcett

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 29.—Scores of rumors and reports from persons who thought they had seen William Bagley, escaped bank robber and safecracker, who shot and seriously wounded Detective David Maxwell of Burnaby late Saturday evening, had been sifted by police of the Vancouver district up to the middle of this afternoon, but no clue of any real value had been uncovered. There has been no sign of Bagley since the finding of the car he abandoned in the 200 block of East Georgia Street after the Saturday night shooting.

It was said a search might be made to-day for a supposed "hide-out" used by Bagley and Gordon Fawcett at various times since their escape from the Okalla prison, January 3. This place is said to be located on the outskirts of the city.

FORCES CO-OPERATE

Chief John Cameron of New Westminster to-day continued to afford co-operation of his department with the Vancouver force in the search for Bagley. He was maintaining on bridges and highways leading in and out of the Royal City.

Informed by the wounding of their comrade, Detective Maxwell, who had not drawn a weapon before he was killed by a bullet from Bagley's gun, officers of the Burnaby force are displaying intense vigor in the search for the gunman. Every man of that department is working extra hours in the hope the fugitive may be picked up and brought to justice.

NOT OUT OF DANGER
Detective Maxwell to-day was still fighting for life in the Vancouver General Hospital. Authorities this afternoon reported his condition as "touch the same."

Search of city rooming-houses and hotels for Bagley was without success, although several proprietors, on being shown pictures of the escaped convict, stated they might have been a guest at some time.

A report the fugitive was seen on the North Shore of Burrard Inlet gave promise of ending the search, but when the lead was followed up it was discovered the man suspected of being Bagley was a respectable citizen and did not bear even a slight resemblance to the criminal.

Gordon Fawcett, who escaped with Bagley from the Okalla prison farm January 3, and was arrested Saturday evening by Provincial Detectives C. Ledoux and Marcus Phipps at the year of the Terminal Hotel on Powell Street, was in the Okalla jail to-day.

No charges were laid against Fawcett here, but city authorities stated charges of possession of stolen goods, the car taken at Ladner from Game Warden W. H. Cameron, who was abducted by Bagley and Fawcett Saturday, and of carrying weapons for a purpose dangerous to the public peace, might be laid.

Fawcett will face a charge of jail-breaking in Burnaby, and it is possible, it is reported, that he may be accused of robbery with violence and abduction in Ladner. These charges arise from the holding up and carrying off of the game warden, who attempted to intercept and arrest the two fugitives at River and Scott Roads.

The police boat William McRae, with heavily-armed crew, has searched among scores of boats and houseboats along the shores of Burrard Inlet.

Reports received here continued to tell of the efforts of the police in Seattle and elsewhere throughout the northwestern United States to discover if Bagley had crossed the boundary from British Columbia.

THREAT BELIEVED FAKE

Burnaby police received a report from Harry Ryrie, Esquimalt Street, that he had been threatened over the telephone by a man purporting to be Bagley, but Chief W. J. Devitt denied it. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Dominion Income Tax Returns Due

The Commissioner of Dominion Income Tax calls attention to the fact that all information returns of salaries, wages, dividends and other income must be filed by March 31 to avoid a penalty being imposed. Forms are available at the income tax offices in Victoria and may also be obtained from all post offices.

Returns should be completed in duplicate and mailed, postage paid, to Inspector of Income Tax, Which Building, Vancouver, B.C.

All returns mailed up to and including March 31 are in order but any mailed after that date are subject to a penalty not exceeding $50. Such penalty is mandatory under the Income Tax Act and must be imposed in all cases of late filing.

Montreal, March 29.—The British pound was quoted at $4.19½ in local foreign exchange deals at 3 p.m. to-day.

FALL OF SNOW IS WELCOMED BY FARMERS OF PRAIRIES

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, March 29.—Snow fell on 20,000 square miles of prairie wheat-producing country overnight, and highways in central Manitoba were blocked this morning. Agriculturalists considered the snowfall would be of particular advantage to owners of farm lands in this province. From seven to eleven inches fell in Manitoba.

Hardly a prairie district was not blanketed with snow to-day. Winnipeg citizens trudged through seven inches of snow and at Deloraine the fall measured eleven inches. In Saskatchewan and Alberta it ranged from a half inch to four inches in depth.

Freshening winds threatened to develop into a semi-blizzard west of Winnipeg, but no damage had been reported early this afternoon.

NEW BOAT REPORT IN BABY HUNT

This statement by one of three Norfolk intermediaries who are trying to get the abducted child back was interpreted by newspapers as meaning his immediate release was not expected. Dean Dobson-Peacock said again, however, he and the other two, Rear-Admiral Guy H. Burrage and John H. Curtis, boat builder, were optimistic.

What the Norfolk does not say is that the child was kept closely guarded, although he did say the conference had resulted from a "contact" with the abductors.

RETURN AWAITED
Norfolk, Va., March 29.—Return of very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, former Canadian minister, was awaited to-day by John Hughes Curtis and Rear-Admiral Guy H. Burrage, his associates, in seeking to bring about the return of the abducted Lindbergh baby.

Developments which were expected to follow rapidly after a mysterious week-end airplane trip taken by Curtis and a wife by Dean Dobson-Peacock to the Lindbergh home yesterday were delayed indefinitely by failure of the churchman to return yesterday evening.

Rear-Admiral Burrage's only comment was an expression of hope for the success of the efforts of the three, and one of regret at the publicity connected with his name.

Meanwhile, a published report that $50,000 ransom money was stored in the safe at Christ Church rectory caused such uneasiness on the part of the wife of Dean Dobson-Peacock that a police guard was thrown around that home.

Winnipeg Mayor States Depression To End Soon

Looks For Revival in Canadian West After Imperial Economic Conference: Forecasts Bumper Wheat Crop and Better Market Conditions For Prairies

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 29.—Mayor Ralph Webb of Winnipeg predicts better times by June and declares the real turning point will be the coming Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa.

"In Winnipeg there already has been a slight change for the better," he said in an interview here. "As I size the situation up, after a tour of the east, we reached the depth of the depression and are slowly climbing out. The Imperial Conference will be the deciding factor. It is a give-and-take policy which the rest of the empire is deciding on, and I think the things will be much better. If we decide to follow the United States, then I have little hopes for better times in Canada."

"Eastern Canada, which was a year behind the west in feeling the depression, now knows what unemployment really means. The west will pick up first. The east sees now how dependent it is on the west. The west will have to improve before the wheels of industry in eastern Canada will turn prosperously again."

"One of the chief reasons for my optimism," he continued, "is the probability of a good crop on the prairies and also improved world market conditions. It is estimated there will be sown to grain from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 acres more than last year. Owing to the open fall, land is better prepared. An open winter put frost well into the ground and rain last fall and recent snows have done much good."

LOOKS FOR BIG CROP
Everything points to a big crop. There is no doubt the world is coming to a wheat shortage and Russia is definitely out of wheat export. As a matter of fact, if Russia were to do the right thing by her starving masses, she would be importing wheat.

"Here is another argument for the Canadian farmers," observed Mayor Webb. "The monopolistic idea—wheat pools—is out of business. There is no doubt we brought the wheat condition on ourselves. Now that this idea has vanished, the large importing countries, such as Great Britain, Germany and France, will not put so much land into cultivation. This in itself places the wheat business on a better basis."

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION
"I would suggest that farmers combine, as they did for the pools, and raise a fund for a campaign to educate the world to eat more wheat and meat, and counteract some of the propaganda of dietitians in other countries," he stated. "I will not be surprised if such a campaign has a great effect on the future of the Canadian farmer."

Mayor Webb will spend several days in Vancouver and on Vancouver Island before starting for home. During his stay here he may revive the discussion of a new Diesel electric engine developed by Armstrong Whitworth.

The demonstration of it was attended by a party of M.P.'s representing railway and industrial districts. The engine points to the possibility of electrifying our railways by the generation of power by the locomotives themselves, with the subsequent dispensing of thousands of miles of tracks and innumerable power and sub-stations at a cost estimated in the Weir report at $341,000,000.

It is calculated that existing tracks and system operations could be employed, and that the equivalent of the Weir Report scheme could be carried out at a total cost of $154,000,000, a saving of $187,000,000.

Hitherto Diesel oil has been obtained from petroleum, but if an assured demand can be developed, it is considered that coal can provide the necessary fuel at a competitive price, and can compete in world markets in every field of use of the Diesel engine which has already proved highly efficient, not only for locomotives, but for purposes ranging from the largest ocean liners to the smallest motor-cycle.

FRANCE IN LAST STIRRING TRIBUTE TO BRIAND
France's grief-stricken thousands solemnly stood by with bared heads as "the great man of peace"—Aristide Briand—was borne amidst military pomp through Paris streets to the little cemetery at Passy. This striking picture reveals the stirring scene as the horse-drawn carriage carrying the famous statesman's casket was about to turn on to Pont de la Concorde. In the background may be seen four great heaves, piled high with flowers sent by emperors, kings, presidents and lesser folk throughout the world. ## SHANGHAI CURFEW RULE IS ENDED

Shanghai, March 29.—The curfew regulation in the International Settlement, adopted at the beginning of the Japanese-Chinese hostilities as a safety measure, was abolished to-day.

Authorities of the French concession participated in the celebration of the rule, which required all citizens to be off the streets between 10 p.m. and 4 a.m.

WORKLESS MEN CHEER PEARSON

Nanaimo Unemployed Voice Criticism of Relief Policy of Government

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, March 29.—George Pearson, M.P., yesterday morning attended a mass meeting of unemployed in Queen's Hall, to hear complaints and suggestions. Mr. Pearson briefly reviewed the unemployed policy of the government, stating that mistakes had been made, but the authorities were doing their best. The question at present was, "How were men going to eat until prosperity came back?"

Mr. Pearson criticised the provincial government's camp policy. It was his opinion that the proper men to go to camps were transients, not single young men who had homes. Single young men were the responsibility of the municipalities and province and provision should be made for them to be kept in their homes. He was prepared to argue that point on the floor of the House and would do all in his power in the cause of unemployed men.

Mr. Pearson was told that much dissatisfaction had been caused by the government agent and road foreman "stealing the bread" when men were given a ticket to start work. Complaints were made that certain men in Chase River district were receiving steady work, which should be shared. Mr. Pearson impressed the men with his very sympathetic attitude and received an ovation when he left the hall.

Revenue Seizure Ruling Is Awaited

Melbourne, Aus., March 29.—The Australian high court to-day rendered judgment on the action of the State of New South Wales, supported by the states of Victoria and Tasmania, contesting the validity of the Commonwealth government's financial agreement Enforcement Bill.

This is the measure which makes the Commonwealth directly responsible to holders of state as well as Commonwealth loans, and in turn empowers the Commonwealth to seize the revenues of any state defaulting payments on its debts, as New South Wales has done.

NEW DIESEL ENGINE MAY SAVE BILLION FOR ENGLISH RAILWAYS

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times
London.—A saving equal to one billion dollars to the railway companies and a revival of the British coal industry were sketched at a demonstration of a new Diesel electric engine developed by Armstrong Whitworth.

The demonstration of it was attended by a party of M.P.'s representing railway and industrial districts. The engine points to the possibility of electrifying our railways by the generation of power by the locomotives themselves, with the subsequent dispensing of thousands of miles of tracks and innumerable power and sub-stations at a cost estimated in the Weir report at $341,000,000.

It is calculated that existing tracks and system operations could be employed, and that the equivalent of the Weir Report scheme could be carried out at a total cost of $154,000,000, a saving of $187,000,000.

Hitherto Diesel oil has been obtained from petroleum, but if an assured demand can be developed, it is considered that coal can provide the necessary fuel at a competitive price, and can compete in world markets in every field of use of the Diesel engine which has already proved highly efficient, not only for locomotives, but for purposes ranging from the largest ocean liners to the smallest motor-cycle.

BIGGER SHOWBOAT SEASON COMING

Halifax, March 29.—Some of the world's finest ocean liners will be turned into showboats during the coming summer for a series of "make good" cruises to Nova Scotia ports.

Five companies have announced schedules for the season and several others are preparing plans for cruises. Last year cruise ships brought more than 22,000 visitors to Halifax.

TEST FLIGHT PILOT'S LAST

Capt. Y. Nagoya, Japanese, Killed in Accident at New York

New York, March 29.—Capt. Y. Nagoya, Japanese flier, was killed to-day in the plane which he hoped to pilot across the Pacific Ocean for the $25,000 prize offered by the Tokio newspaper Hochi Shimbun.

The plane, a new Bellanca delivered only a week ago, diverged into the water near Mill Basin, near Floyd Bennett Airport, a few moments after Nagoya had attempted to take off for New Castle, Del., where the Bellanca Company was to make final adjustments.

The plane left the ground with difficulty, rose 20 feet into the air, hit the ground, bounced up to approximately 200 feet and went into a dive. Control seemed to be recovered, it touched the ground again and bounced up again, and then slid into the water, bursting into flames as it struck.

RESCUERS' EFFORTS
Patrolman Anthony A. Peralde and Richard Galala, diver into the water and pulled the flier's body from the burning plane.

They were able only to take the body as far as Salt Marshes, from which city firemen recovered it with difficulty. It was some time before firemen could reach the plane with chemicals and when they did it was already destroyed. The body of Nagoya was badly burned.

Capt. Nagoya was married and had one child. His family is in Tokio. His companion on the Pacific flight was to be Sergt. K. Ashai. The latter did not fly with him to-day.

The ship was a monoplane with a 450-horsepower supercharged Wasp motor and a gasoline capacity of 1,100 gallons. It was christened "Hochi Shimbun," which the Japanese flier translated as "Hail the Rising Sun."

Portland, Ore., March 29.—Capt. Nagoya, Japanese flier, who was killed in a crash to-day at New York, had planned to start his proposed trans-Pacific flight from either Portland or Seattle.

Nagoya, who visited Portland last Thanksgiving Day, said the Swan Island airport here probably would be the best place to start.

Hiroshi Amano, Japanese consul here, was shocked by the news of Nagoya's death. "Capt. Nagoya had been so sure of success on the flight," he said, "He was in such high spirits when he talked to me about it."

Capt. Nagoya's flight was to have been sponsored by the Japanese newspaper Hochi Shimbun.

NEW TOXOID FOR SCARLET FEVER

Washington Scientists Discover Potent Immunization Treatment

Washington, March 29.—A new way to immunize children against scarlet fever, considered more potent than the anti-toxin now in use, was announced to-day by the United States public health service.

The new treatment is a toxoid consisting essentially of a mixture of scarlet fever germs and the anti-toxin manufactured by the blood to resist them, with formalin added as a preservative. The toxoid is still undergoing tests, but is considered so satisfactory that physicians of the public health service are treating their own children with it.

The toxoid is not only considered a better protection against scarlet fever than the old anti-toxin, but is much easier to take because it produces only a mild reaction in the child.

PU YI CAPITAL IS THREATENED

Chinese Army Moving on New Manchuria Headquarters at Changchun

Associated Press
Changchun, Manchuria, March 29.—The throne of young Henry Pu Yi, heir of the old Manchurian emperors, and newly-made dictator of federated Manchuria, trembled to-day before the march of 7,000 Chinese rebels, advancing victoriously on Changchun.

Almost every branch of the Japanese military service here and at Mukden, the old capital, was called out to-day to stop the rebel march.

Japanese airplanes attacked with bombs and machine guns the rebel ranks at Nongman, only thirty-five miles from here, in eastern Kilin.

The rebel troops, sworn to overthrow the new government of the federated state, which they have charged with usurping the power in Manchuria under the tutelage of the Japanese, are led by Gen. Li-Hai-teing.

DEFEAT REGULARS
They apparently had defeated the regular troops of Governor Hsi Hsia outside the town of Nongman, which was reported on the verge of surrender. The small Japanese detachments sent from here sent messages for help, saying they had suffered heavy casualties in the fighting.

The rebels have established their headquarters at Fu-Yu and are in control of the territory south of there as far as Nungang.

Gen. Li's army has dubbed itself the "Anti-Japanese Army for the Salvation of the Country." It is equipped with light artillery and numerous machine guns.

RAIL WORKERS VOTE PAY CUT

Shop Trades of Canadian Lines Agree to 10 Per Cent Reduction For Year

Canadian Press
Montreal, March 29.—The All-Canadian Federated Shop Trades, numbering some 80,000 mechanics on more than a half dozen Canadian railroads, will take a 10 per cent cut in pay for one year, dating from April 1, it was announced to-day. The reduction will mean a saving of $2,000,000 annually to the companies.

The new agreement, which will terminate March 31, 1933, provision is made for a 10 per cent reduction in the monthly compensation of the men—"maintaining the basic rates of pay."

The companies affected include the Canadian Pacific, the Canadian National, the Dominion Atlantic, the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario, the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo, the Quebec Central, the Northern Alberta, and the Equinault and Nainville Railway.

NO COMMENTS.
Beyond making the bare announcement of the agreement, which was signed in the offices of the Railway Association of Canada, neither the companies, leaders, nor officials of the unions would comment. "We have no statement to make," said Charles Dickie, national secretary of the Federated Shop Trades. Grant Hall, vice-president of the C.P.R., acted as chairman of the associated companies' operating committee, and R. J. Talton, Canadian president of the Federated Shop Trades, acted as chairman of the union committee.

The Federated Shop Trades have a total membership of slightly over 80,000 men and women mechanics employed in shops, roundhouses and yards.

Meanwhile, the Brotherhood of Maintenance-of-Way Employees, with a membership of 40,000 section men, switchmen and general laborers, faced with a similar cut and will start negotiations with the company next week. The two sections are known as the largest groups of employees on the railways in Canada.

KRUSCHEN"

Is a crude, single salt "just as good as" Kruschen Salts? "Not a bit of it," asserts this lady, who has put both to the test for acute rheumatism. Rem how experience taught this lady to rely upon Kruschen and Kruschen alone to keep rheumatism at bay.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are the most effective solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals, then convert them into a harmless solution. Oil ingredients of these salts have stimulating effect upon the kidney and assist them to expel the dissolved uric acid through the natural channel. Combined with these solvents and eliminators of uric acid are other salts which prevent food fermentation taking place in the intestine and thereby check the further formation of mischievous uric acid. Kruschen Salts is obtainable at Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

UNDS ASKED BY VANCOUVER

P.P.'s Told City Needs Big Dominion-Provincial Relief Payments at Once

Canadian Press
Vancouver, March 29.—Immediate payment or partial payment of the $61,000 owed to Vancouver by the provincial and federal governments for unemployment relief is necessary if the city is to continue maintaining the large number of families it has at its hands at the present time, Vancouver members of the Legislature have been informed by members of the council.

Not only must arrangements be made to repay the city for its outlay, but a definite policy for the future must be laid down, it is declared.

"Conditions are much worse than a year ago," Col. H. W. Cooper, city relief officer, stated at a conference with Vancouver members of the Legislature and the city council at a conference in the City Hall yesterday afternoon. "We had 2,400 families on relief a year ago, and now we have 5,000, of which about 800 are working on relief work."

"Persons are coming for assistance this year who never before asked us for aid. They are coming because they are exhausted all of their resources and must ask if their families are to be fed," he continued.

MUCH PAID IN RENT
The city was now paying about ten times as much rent for indigents as a year ago, the relief officer reported, and in addition was having heavy demands made on it for clothing. Boys' shoes and underwear were particularly in demand.

Alderman A. G. Harvey, chairman of the city relief committee, stressed on the gathering the advantage of keeping men employed instead of giving direct relief.

"We should make some arrangements to keep the men working," he said. "If we do not they will soon lose their morale."

This point was also pressed by Col. Cooper, who said: "The men have been very patient, but are now getting restless as they hear all of the backwash and scolding in the parliament and are dissatisfied and losing all hope of ever getting employment."

Asked about the men who took part in the Communist demonstrations, the relief officer said many were not in sympathy with it, but had paraded because they were tired of inactivity.

SHARES URGED
The city should not pass up the opportunity to obtain a share of the new gasoline tax and income taxes to be collected this year, Thomas H. Kirk, M.P.P., stated. He said the government was hitting directly at the city sources of income and the city was entitled to a share.

CIVIC PROBLEM
Unemployment in this province was much a civic problem as a government problem, in the opinion of Lieut.-Col. Nelson Spencer, M.P.P. He said the city of Vancouver contributed about half of the provincial revenue, and money paid out in unemployment relief was from the city, whether it was handed through the government or not.

As far as solving the problem was concerned, he believed the business interests of the country should try and absorb more labor on shorter hours. If business did not step in and assist it would be ruined by the taxes the government must collect to relieve the situation, he declared.

WINNIPEG CANDIDATE
Winnipeg, March 29.—V. H. Conman will contest a Winnipeg constituency for the New Canadian Independent Party in the forthcoming Manitoba general election. Eight men proposed as candidates were voted on by the 400 delegates who attended a meeting here yesterday evening and Conman was given 255 votes against 155 given his closest opponent.

BEATTY REVEALS C.P.R. POSITION

Further Economies Planned; Place Viger Hotel May Be Closed

Canadian Press
Montreal, March 29.—Results of operation of hotels and steamships, with various departments showing encouraging operating profits, before deductions for interest and other charges on the investment, were revealed in the pamphlet report of the Canadian Pacific Railway issued here by President E. W. Beatty.

The report shows total assets of the C.P.R. at the end of 1931 were $1,380,689,568, against $1,371,959,694 at the end of 1930.

Operation of the company's hotels resulted in a decrease in earnings of $372,837 under those of the previous year, due principally to the falling off in both commercial and tourist business which was general over the continent, and to the fact that no time since your company's established hotels as auxiliary to its railway and to stimulate tourist and convention travel, has the hotel business been at such a low ebb.

The earnings of the Royal York Hotel were, however, well maintained, amounting to $477,091, only $18,945 less than last year, Mr. Beatty said.

A final decision as to whether or not the Place Viger Hotel in Montreal would be closed would not be made until after the year-end report.

The operating results of the combined Atlantic and Pacific fleets for the year have been satisfactory, considering traffic conditions, the company has been able to receive its full share of the business offering, Mr. Beatty said. Three of the older vessels, the Bolingbroke, Bothwell and Metagama had been laid up for the entire season and other ships withdrawn for temporary periods.

EMPRESS EARNINGS OPERATING PROFIT
The Empress of Britain had shown an operating profit for the year ending of $396,158, and was now on world cruise. No serious casualties to the fleet took place in 1931.

With regard to branch lines, Mr. Beatty stated that at the close of 1931 the company was within sight of the end of a construction programme begun in 1914.

"Your directors are not recommending for approval any new construction during the present year, the only work to be done being to complete lines already partially built," he said.

Mr. Beatty mentioned the royal commission on transportation, stating that it had not yet concluded its labors.

The fifty-first annual meeting will be held in Montreal on May 4. The following directors will then retire from office, but will be eligible for reelection: Grant Hall, Montreal; R. A. McLaughlin, Ottawa; E. R. Peacock, London, England; and W. N. Tilley, K.C., Toronto.

SURPLUS REDUCED
The year's income figures, issued recently, showed that as a result of operations, a net debit of $8,326,225 was chargeable to surplus after payment of all dividends. The balance sheet in the annual report showed the working capital at $1,029,584, which compared with $68,340,856 at the end of 1930.

Reviewing the year, E. W. Beatty, K.C., president, reported to the shareholders that the working expenses for the year, including all taxes, amounted to $1,96 per cent of the gross earnings and the net earnings to 18.04 per cent, compared with 78.81 per cent and 21.19 per cent respectively in 1930. Excluding taxes, the ratio of working expenses to gross earnings was 79.17 per cent in 1931 and 76.50 per cent in 1930.

Gross earnings from railway operations for the year were $40,224,151, freight earnings decreasing $24,427,230, passenger earnings $8,438,151 and miscellaneous earnings $7,368,791. Working expenses were decreased by $27,219,350, resulting in net earnings of $25,682,872, or a decrease from the previous year of $13,004,801.

ECONOMIES EFFECTED
Under a sub-heading of "economies," Mr. Beatty stated the drastic reduction of $27,219,350 in the working expenses for the year, following on a reduction of $23,934,266 effected in 1930 (a total reduction from 1929 of $51,153,616), "indicated the efforts of the management to curtail, as far as possible, the acute decrease in gross earnings." Passenger train service was reduced by 3,258,009 train miles per annum and trains were operated with fewer coaches. Five operating divisions were eliminated by consolidating offices and staffs and a number of stations were closed. The number of locomotives in service was reduced.

The directors decided early in the year upon a 10 per cent reduction in the salaries and wages of all officers and employees. "At the date of this report the reduction has been applied to the majority of the payrolls and steps have been taken to apply it to the remainder at an early date," Mr. Beatty reported. On the basis of pay-

LOAN REFUSED WITH RUSH ON

Manitoba Savings Office Appealed to Premier Bennett, House Learns

Associated Press
Winnipeg, March 29.—After refusing a loan to the Manitoba provincial office for the purpose of meeting unusual demands of depositors, the chartered banks of Canada demanded a pledge from Premier John Bracken that the province would definitely go out of the savings business before agreeing to take over the accounts of the savings office.

Letters and telegrams passing between Bracken and Premier R. B. Bennett and the banks were laid before the committee. When the run on the savings office started Mr. Bracken sought a loan from the banks to avoid the necessity of selling securities in an unfavorable market.

When advised of the situation Premier R. B. Bennett asked for details and at first declined to act. He was asked by Mr. Bracken to reconsider the matter and sent a telegram saying Mr. Bracken would be advised of the terms the following day.

TERMS ARE SET OUT
The next day, February 11, Mr. Bracken received a letter from R. E. English of the Bank of Montreal suggesting the government present a formal request to the banks for the taking over of the savings office. The form of the request and the terms were indicated in the letter.

Chief of the conditions was that the government would assume the Provincial Legislature within fourteen days and repeal the Provincial Savings Office Act.

REPEAL DEMANDED
Further correspondence followed in which Mr. Bracken said he was willing to introduce legislation providing for repeal of the act, but could not promise the government would not re-enter the savings deposit business, but wished the act repealed.

The terms of the agreement as finally accepted, however, required the repeal of the act. The government undertakes to discontinue the taking of deposits in the present or any other office.

The province agreed to issue treasury bills payable in one year at 5 1/2 per cent interest to the amount of the deposit liabilities of the savings office. All securities held by the savings office were to be delivered to the banks, to be held as collateral until the treasury bills were paid off, the banks assuming liabilities to depositors.

LAKE AT SOUTH GEORGIA BOUNDARY DISAPPEARS

Associated Press
Thomasville, Ga., March 28.—Big Jackson, husky brother of two other fresh water lakes, is visiting unknown parts.

He has a habit of disappearing suddenly and then returning to his bed in a most amazing manner. Big Jackson is about ten miles long and four miles wide when feeling good and full, and this is the second time this year he has disappeared through some mysterious subterranean channel and left only mud in his bed to explain his escapade.

Jackson, Nicosukee and Lamonia form a triangle of big lakes along the Georgia-Florida line, and have a partnership in the disappearing act. Each does the trick at irregular intervals every few years, but Jackson is the most proficient. Last January, Jackson's waters drained suddenly, and then returned in a few weeks.

He was a well-behaved lake, a sportsman, but again until a few days ago, when the water suddenly slipped through a trap door known only to nature. The fish that fill the lake went too. When the water returned, fish will be unusually abundant if this visit is as fruitful as previous ones.

Where the lake goes and what causes the recession is a mystery.

Associated Press
Charlotte, N.C., March 28.—Automatic typesetting—the operation of a typewriter direct from copy without human effort—was demonstrated here yesterday before a small group of publishers and newspaper executives.

The demonstration was given by the inventor, Burton L. Green, former printer and machinist, in a special room of The Charlotte Observer building, where for more than two years he has worked in closest secrecy to develop the device.

Green placed a sheet of copy from a specially-constructed typewriter on the carriage of his mechanism, which replaced the standard linotype keyboard. A tiny beam of light was focused on the copy at the left end of the first line. The switch was thrown and the carriage began to shuttle the copy to the left until the beam of light had covered the entire line. Simultaneously, the matrices began to drop from the linotype magazine, and the slug of the type was cast in the conventional manner.

The movement of the paper proceeded uniformly, line by line, one slug of seven-point type followed another with regularity. Green explained the device was timed to deliver six lines a minute, for the demonstration; but that the only limit to its speed was the head and shoulders of the linotype machine.

Automatic Copy-linotype Machine Demonstrated in Charlotte, N.C.

It was also unsettled whether the Danubian conference itself will be held at Geneva or at London.

BIG DOMINION LOAN SHORTLY

Regina M.P. Says Demands Are So Great Issue Must Be Floated

Canadian Press
Regina, March 29.—The Dominion Government will shortly float another internal loan to meet the increasing demands that are being made on the treasury, according to F. W. Turnbull, K.C., M.P. for Regina, a Conservative.

"We need more money and we cannot get it from the United States or the money markets of the world, so there will be another loan coming along one of these days," said Mr. Turnbull in an address yesterday evening to the executive of the Regina Conservative Association.

He said ever-increasing demands were being made on the federal treasury and that it would be necessary to raise $607,000,000 this year and that this sum in part was made up of $10,000,000 for municipalities; $475,000 for provincial works; $700,000 for provincial highways; $5,250,000 for the relief commission; seed, grain, $6,500,000 and other payments, $11,550,000.

Saskatchewan alone required a total of $26,075,000, made up of $1,600,000 for grants to municipalities; $475,000 for provincial works; $700,000 for provincial highways; $5,250,000 for the relief commission; seed, grain, $6,500,000 and other payments, $11,550,000.

TO CHOOSE DATE FOR CONFERENCE

Britain, Germany, France and Italy to Discuss Danubian Economic Plans

Associated Press
Berlin, March 29.—The German Government accepted in principle to-day the invitation of Premier MacDonald for a conference in London on Danubian affairs.

The invitation was extended by the Prime Minister last week to the governments of France, Germany and Italy. No date was set, but it was stated that the conference would be held the last of this week.

A spokesman for the Foreign Office said the government welcomed heartily the suggestion for a four-power conference provided it was merely a preliminary to a large conference in which the Danubian powers and others directly interested would participate.

TO CHOOSE DATE

Motorist Badly Burned Recovers

Associated Press
Memphis, Tenn., March 29.—Game Jack Boty, who lived in an electric oven at a temperature of 103 degrees for 332 days to upset predictions of physicians that he could not survive burns received in a motorcar accident, has gone to a hospital to get some new skin.

He was injured early last May. His back was scalded to the bone and his right leg parched. Physicians were almost sure he could not live, but placed him in the oven, heated by a battery of electric light, as a last resort. Only his head and shoulders were free.

Doty lived like that—lying face down—and now, finally, the treatment of lights and heat has drawn the impurities from his burns and aided the growth of new under-skin, until grafting can be started. He was moved from his home to the hospital yesterday in heated blankets. He is expected to be there four or five weeks while the new skin covers his burns.

Giant Specimens Shot in Paraguay

Buenos Aires, March 29.—Up in the Grand Desert of Paraguay roamed a wolf five feet long with a black mane. Dr. Donald S. Wees, exploring the area for the Harvard University Museum, is bringing back his pet.

He also has the hide of a giant ant bear with an enormous bushy tail and powerful forelegs tipped with three-inch claws. He is bringing back butterflies with six-inch wings and dragon flies with bodies an eighth of an inch wide and six inches long.

He reported bagging these trophies in a letter to the Associated Press dated February 11 from his camp on the Yguazu River, where he and two companions broke their journey in a hand-sawed cedar canoe.

H. L. KIRCH DIES
New York, March 29.—Harold Louis Kirck, one of the world's foremost authorities on the paintings of the old masters, died yesterday evening at Pinehurst, N.C. Death was due to a heart attack.

NOT CANADIAN, BUT WHITE MAN

Orillia, Ont., March 29.—Whatever the law may say about his nationality, Patrick Gettins, sixty-five, is not disclosing it. Appearing yesterday before Magistrate Dan MacLaughlin on a charge of assaulting William Martel, Gettins was asked if he was a Canadian.

"I am a white man," he said.

"Well, I suppose according to law the only real Canadians are the Indians," admitted the magistrate.

Gettins pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to two months' imprisonment.

Spring Wheat Plantings Larger

Chicago, March 28.—Disconcerting are the effects of Washington official reports of intended big planting of spring wheat.

Government figures on 1932 intentions to plant spring wheat revealed likelihood of much larger acreage than was needed this year, and a huge expansion as compared with the harvested area. There were estimates also that acreage of corn, oats and barley would be augmented to a material extent.

TOFINO OFFICIALS

Tofino, March 29.—Jacob Arnet, R. F. Guppy and J. Cooper have been unanimously elected commissioners of Tofino. There was no opposition to permanent appointment of the three candidates, who had acted as temporary commissioners while organization of the village municipality was pending.

W. Armitage has been appointed town clerk.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN

New York, March 29.—Departing for Great Britain yesterday evening, Admiral Sir W. Reginald Hall, who was head of the British Naval Intelligence Service during the Great War, said he felt he was returning to a country that was markedly on the upgrade.

The next dividend would not be considered, he said, until August, "at which time the actual earnings for the first half of 1932 will be known and an estimate can safely be made of the Canadian grain crop."

Sales of agricultural lands for the year amounted to $1,254,100.93, an average of $14.30 per acre.

Mr. Beatty reviewed the recently announced decision of the company to remit a year's interest on the total amount owing by land contract holders.

WEATHER HALTS REINDEER HERD

Ottawa Learns Movement of 3,000 Animals From Alaska to Mackenzie Delta Impeded

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 29.—Due to unfavorable climate conditions, the progress of more than 3,000 reindeer from Alaska to the Mackenzie district, of the Northwest Territories has been greatly impeded.

In May 1929, the Dominion Government agreed to purchase from the Lomen Brothers Reindeer Company of Nome, Alaska, 3,000 select reindeer. Departing out of the interior of Alaska, the herd was informed from time to time during the last year of the progress of the herd, but during the last few months they have had no word.

NOT ANXIOUS
The government, however, feels no anxiety over the delay, since it is considered highly probable nothing serious has happened to the herd. No loss would be sustained by the government, in any event, as it did not agree to pay for the reindeer until delivered at the Mackenzie delta.

Reindeer herders employed by Lomen Brothers are in charge of the animals, and when they reach Kittiwaguit they will be taken over by three Lapland herders imported by the Canadian government.

CHICAGO CRIME VOLUME SHRINKS

Chicago, March 29.—Maybe the crooks are finding out crime does not pay.

Whatever the reason, Chicago's criminal court record is down.

Chief Justice Hiram Fisher to-day announced that for the first time in the city's history, Chicago's seven criminal court judges had caught up with their work.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Acidic digestions are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bismarck Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. It sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bismarck Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and in the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion. (Adv.)

MANITOBA AND BRITISH COLUMBIA

THE BUDGET WHICH PREMIER Bracken introduced in the Manitoba Legislature the other day will be of considerable interest to many former residents of the prairie province who are now living in British Columbia. And, since in these days the financial problems of one province have a direct association with similar problems in other provinces, a few comparisons are worth referring to.

As is only natural, most people are mainly concerned with the income tax and such other taxes as directly hit their pocket-books. In Manitoba, for instance, the exemptions for married persons and householders are now to be reduced from $3,000 to $1,500. In the case of the old Taxation Act of British Columbia, the exemption for married persons was $1,800; this is now reduced to $500. In Manitoba, the exemption for single persons has been reduced from $1,500 to $750. In British Columbia there is now no exemption for single persons. In the case of dependents, the Manitoba exemption has been reduced from $500 to $300 each. The exemption for dependents in British Columbia is $200.

In the matter of the gasoline tax, Manitoba has increased the levy by one cent, as against British Columbia's increase of two cents, while automobile licenses are to remain unchanged, except those of commercial trucks, which are to be increased.

Revenue and expenditure in Manitoba for the next fiscal year, according to the Bracken budget, are estimated at $13,717,688 and $13,692,044 respectively, or an estimated surplus of $25,000. Compared with last year, expenditure will be a little more than $1,000,000 less, with revenues expected to be about $987,000 less. Last year's budget for this province provided for an expenditure of a little more than $29,000,000; for the next fiscal year it is set at $24,688,000, a saving of more than $5,000,000.

Manitoba's debt is given by Premier Bracken as $94,201,735, compared with British Columbia's debt of $116,050,610. As in this province, Manitoba has gone in for substantial salary cuts in the civil service. The prairie province will save about $115,000 by amalgamating the provincial police with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Incidentally, the Bracken budget reduces the salaries of surrogate judges by $1,000 a year.

In comparing the British Columbia with the Manitoba budget, it is only fair to bear in mind that while the population of the prairie province is a little more than this province—720,139 against 694,265—the square mileage is 1,200,000 less, or 737,000, against 252,000. Moreover, physical conditions in the two provinces, of course, differ considerably, the cost of public works in British Columbia being much higher than public works in Manitoba.

At the same time, it is doubtful whether this different condition, even with the smaller area, ought to account for all the difference between an expenditure for the next fiscal year of $14,000,000 in Manitoba and $25,000,000 in British Columbia.

NO TARIFF AGAINST TOURISTS

WHILE EVERYBODY IN THIS AND every other country of the empire is hoping the Imperial Economic Conference will produce fruitful results, it is to be hoped the Dominion government is not losing sight of that request which Canadian publicity and tourist organizations recently made for an advertising appropriation that would enable Canada adequately to advertise her attractions to the whole world. Inter-empire trade should be fostered; but it is hemmed around by artificial barriers which the Ottawa gathering is hardly likely to demolish. Canada's tariff schedules, however, do not apply to our visitors. They enter free of duty; and if they bring anything in their baggage which is taxable, they know all about it beforehand and are prepared either to pay the duty—or to try to beat the customs officer.

It ought to be realized by this time that the Dominion's tourist business is one of her most valuable assets. But facts and figures remind us that while our income from this source in 1929 was more than $300,000,000—approximately the value of Canada's total exports and imports at the beginning of the present century—it had dropped to something like $250,000,000 last year. There is nothing extraordinary about this, of course, because in the fall of two years ago the bottom fell out of everything, so to speak, and money that had been flowing freely went into cold storage, what there was of it, and it is only now being brought out into the warmer atmosphere of circulation. Hence, it is this country's business, especially in view of the exchange situation, to make a bid for these dollars. The tourist business is the easiest one to develop—and surely the cheapest. It does not belong in the political field.

NOT NICE

A DISPATCH FROM MIAMI BEACH, Florida, tells us that nine United States outboard motorboat drivers face suspension for having lured Charles H. Harrison, of London, England, across the starting line ahead of the gun in a race there the other day.

American Power Boat Association officials report that one of the nine—apparently somewhat conscience-stricken—had confessed to the conspiracy to disqualify Harrison. The president and secretary of the organization have announced that the whole thing will be thoroughly investigated.

This makes unpleasant reading. The Gar Wood-Kay Don incident is still fresh in the public memory. Happily, however, the men who do not recognize the fundamentals of sportsmanship in the neighboring republic are few and far between. If there is any foundation in the Miami incident, the culprits will be properly dealt with.

THE KREUGER SUICIDE AND ITS EFFECT

THE STRANGE CASE OF IVAR KREUGER, who shot himself in Paris a few days ago, was a most spectacular business news story. What its significance may be, says The Business Week, is still a question of far-reaching importance—ever beyond the wide range of Kreuger and Toll's operations.

Those who are trying to answer that question to-day are speculating. One group that the disconcerting suicide of the chairman of the great international holding company and president of the United States International Match Co. will have only a temporarily unfavorable effect; the other that there will be widespread repercussions for a long time. The former sees the whole answer in the handful of immediately unfavorable developments; the latter is watching the progress of what have recently looked like long-term favorable ones.

What has happened to date is apparently the result of Mr. Kreuger's failure to obtain new loans to lift his massive financial load over its present difficulties. To how great an extent his difficulties were personal, rather than company matters, the New York Journal observes, is still unknown. It then continues:

There were greater problems underlying the immediate crisis. The Kreuger organization was a striking case of pyramided financial structure. Latest figures show that it controlled assets of far above $1,000,000,000 and it is reported that Mr. Kreuger controlled these on a personal investment of little more than a quarter of a million. While this structure was spread across Europe and the United States, it was built primarily upon the countries of Central Europe. It was obviously weakened at the foundation by currency difficulties and restricted exchanges, internally by that depreciation of securities and investments which has become epidemic. It had to confront maturing obligations with declining receipts from subsidiary concerns and grave doubts as to the payment of loans made to Central Europe.

The future of the concern will not be determined for some weeks. Control will probably remain in Sweden, though there is some remote possibility of its shifting to the United States.

The immediate effects of the suicide itself were scattered and not particularly ominous. The world's securities markets turned weak and remained so, but their weakness was not startling except in the collapse of the Kreuger shares. Public discussion of the possible consequences is being sidestepped, but serious private discussion is going on in financial circles throughout the world—from the Bank of International Settlements in Basle to the big offices in Wall Street. So far as it has been publicly expressed, general opinion tends to regard the whole affair as just another financial shock.

Those who disagree with this, The Business Week continues, see these possibilities: In recent days worldwide financial confidence has been reviving after the long-lasting panicky situation which followed the collapse of Austria's Kredit-Anstalt last spring. The Kreuger affair might blight this incipient recovery. Credit and finance are sensitive plants.

Some of this apprehension carries over to American financial developments, affecting those who have been skeptical of the slight budding of the Washington reconstruction programme and the moderately aggressive expansionary efforts of the reserve system. There is the question of what this latest shock may do to confidence, the weekly concludes, and some even fear the uncertainty may cause hesitation in Federal Reserve policy.

Meanwhile, Britain's financial and industrial structure appears to be getting stronger each day.

"DRY" PERCENTAGE HIGHER

ALL THE STATES OF THE NEIGHBOR-ing republic now are represented in The Literary Digest's straw vote on the subject of prohibition, and thirty-three of them have registered more than a two-to-one verdict in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, while only one state, Kansas, favors its continuance. In this traditionally "dry" area 41,758 votes have been cast, 22,277 in favor of no change, and 19,481 for repeal. The nearest to even breaks after Kansas are North Carolina, where 26,082 have voted for repeal and 25,589 for continuance, and Arkansas, where the respective figures are 6,411 and 6,070.

Out of the 20,000,000 ballots issued by The Digest, 3,040,036 have been returned, and these show that 763,175 favor continuance of the present liquor law and 2,276,861 favor its repeal. It should be noted, however, that the "dry" vote scores the fifth consecutive gain this week, rising from 15.85 per cent of the total vote of the first week's return to 25.10 per cent in the current sixth tabulation. High up in this percentage, apart from Kansas, are Arkansas, Oklahoma, and Tennessee. New York had been the leading "wet" state until last week; but Nevada has gone one better with 86.82 per cent.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

IN SILKS AND SATINS
The Ottawa Journal

There has been a lot of comment about Hon. Howard Ferguson's silk pants. Surely it is enough agony for any man to have to appear in a pair of bags like that without the suggestion that the democratic High Commissioner is putting on airs. The Hon. Howard has too keen a sense of humor to imagine that any middle-aged gentleman of generous proportions would take this means of expressing his superiority to the chap who is not called upon to wear fancy dress costume. We imagine His Majesty the King doesn't like his parade regalia any better than the Hon. Howard, but his subjects like gaw-gaws and symbols. So there you are.

OVERCOMING ISOLATION

Rufus Steele in Christian Science Monitor
France takes the lead in trying to overcome the isolation European States have brought upon themselves by tariff walls. Premier Tardieu urges the granting of a loan to Czechoslovakia, disclosing his efforts to have the Little Entente and Austria and Hungary grant preferential tariffs to each other. The Premier reviews the Briand scheme for commercial agreement between the Balkan States. He hopes to get the little nations into mutually profitable accords by promising something that means a lot—approval by the big nations to which they took for financial and political help.

A THOUGHT

Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof.—Romans vi 12.
Sin is the insurrection and rebellion of the heart against God; it turns from Him, and turns against Him; it takes up arms against God.—Richard Allene.

Across The Bay

Some worthless figures are figured out—for no good purpose—I deprecate a fat little man—and Dr. Einstein goes off the deep end.

By H. B. W.

WITH A GREAT deal of pain, and for no useful purpose, I have just been trying to figure out how much the average person in British Columbia will pay in taxes this year. It is kind of mournful calculation, but I think it should be made. Let us, then, say that the average taxpayer had an income of $2,000 last year. His income tax under the new schedule will be $16, that is, assuming that he is married and has one child. He buys a driver's license for himself and wife, which costs him $2. Suppose he drives his car 10,000 miles a year and his car makes twenty miles to the gallon. At seven cents a gallon he will pay gasoline taxes of $35. His car license probably costs him $20. We shall also suppose that he buys a bottle of whisky a month (which may be a little too optimistic in these times). If the whisky costs $4 a bottle, the new liquor tax of five per cent will amount to $240 a year, but in addition he pays a twenty-five per cent net profit to the government, or a tax amounting to $12 a year.

THIS AVERAGE man, we may suppose, bets $20 altogether on horse races during the year, and his seven per cent pari-mutuel tax will cost him $14. Then he goes fishing and his fishing license costs him $1. This is a grand total of $28.20 a year or $7.47 a month. It is quite a lot, but then, he gets a good return for it. Perhaps it will be good for him to reflect occasionally that of his $7.47 a month, almost half goes in interest and sinking fund charges on the borrowings he has made in the past. Only about $4 is for the ordinary cost of carrying on government. It will be good for him to reflect also that if he ran his own affairs as extravagantly as he has been running his province—for the last twenty years or so, he would be paying some $800 a year out of his total $2,000 as interest on a mortgage; or, more accurately, or something much less satisfactory on the repayment of debts contracted while he was sowing his wild oats.

YOU KNOW, it's exasperating to realize suddenly how little attention the public really pays to our patient toll across the Bay. Here we go on week after week, laboring in the vineyard of politics and imagining that every citizen of British Columbia is watching us by day and praying for us by night. What a lot it is, what a disquieting, to come out of that super-heated atmosphere and talk to a few electors. To-day, for instance, I picked up a fat little red man and gave him a lift to town and, judging by our conversation, I would say he was at least equal to the average intelligence. I think it fair to say that he was about the typical citizen of British Columbia, for the typical citizen, mark you, by no means the average enlightened Victorian, the cultured reader of this column, don't you know. Well, after all the misery the Legislature and the newspapers have gone through to explain the Jones budget, this is what the typical citizen of British Columbia, the fat little red little man told me:

SAY, WHAT do you suppose they're doing in the Legislature this year? They're going to raise taxes again. They've got seven cents a gallon on gasoline, that makes twelve cents a gallon altogether. I'm glad I gave up my car last year. They're raising the income tax one per cent, or one cent, I'm not just sure which. That'll make it about three per cent or so, I guess. There's some talk of taxing booze, too. I hear they're going to charge us an extra dollar on every bottle of whisky. I'm glad I drink rum—nothing like that after a hard day. They must be going to spend a lot more money this year than ever. Always do. It doesn't seem to matter which crowd is in, the bill goes up. What's the use of anybody trying to stop it? You can't do anything. I've got so now I never read about the Legislature any more at all. I just skip them in the papers. Nobody bothers about them any more, I guess. You'd think we could elect something better than them, wouldn't you? and get good government. What do you suppose the trouble is? "The trouble," said I, brutally, hurling him to the sidewalk with a sudden application of the brakes, "the trouble is too many fat little red men who aren't fit to be voters." He stopped watching me with a puzzled look and shook his head sadly as I drove off, thinking no doubt that I was a little mad.

DR. EINSTEIN, it seems, has lately undergone a highly significant change of outlook. Up to recently, of course, he lived in a world of mathematics, where nothing was valid which couldn't be measured by one of his field equations and catalogued according to the laws of relativity. But a while ago he met a professional fortune teller, a lady named Gene Dennis, in California, and was astounded at her powers. He called them "miraculous" and said that Miss Dennis had told him things about himself which no ordinary person could possibly explain. Now Dr. Einstein, it is announced, is working on psychic and deeply religious matters and appears to be traveling on the same road as the late Sir Conan Doyle, who said Miss Dennis was "the eighth wonder of the world."

NOW ALL this has caused the scientific world great embarrassment. One of its most respectable members has got off the deep end, and got religion. This is particularly distressing since other scientific notables, who used to believe in nothing but laboratory tests, have been showing dangerous signs of treason lately, too. Dr.

Edgington and Jena and the great Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of California, all have been growing a little sceptical of scepticism. They have been looking wistfully beyond their test tubes, and wondering if there isn't some sense in this queer business after all.

BUT, OF course, the real man of science, the genius and the hard worker, will have none of this weak childishness. They insist that everything is going towards inevitable ruin and dissolution, and that the only way to be happy is to contemplate this cheering fact. Thus the most respected authorities, the final court of opinion, have laid down this principle to guide us in these matters, namely that people like Einstein and Millikan who can find no reason in anything and foresee nothing but the extinction of everything reasonable, have achieved the truth; whereas the Einsteins and the Edgingtons who think they can see some glimmering of intelligence and a little ray of hope have fled from the truth and sought refuge in darkness and dank superstition. In other words, according to the best authorities of these times, if you can see no hope in anything there is some hope for you, but if you see anything sensible in life you have no sense.

RE DAYLIGHT SAVING

To the Editor:—The days are growing longer and will continue to do so until June 22. It is not until the end of July that one notices the evenings drawing in. That is the time to start daylight saving. The evenings are usually mild and pleasant until the first of November. Why not try daylight saving for the three months—August, September and October—by going to work an hour earlier and not interfering with the clocks?

"MAUNDY MONEY"

To the Editor:—Your very interesting report in last Friday's issue of The Times re the distribution of "The King's Maundy Money" was read with wide interest, due to the fact that this year the King himself, accompanied by the Queen, were both present at the ceremony of the ancient custom in London. England. I happened to possess one of these sets of "maundy money" and have loaned it to the firm of J. M. Whitney and Company, local jewellers, corner of Broad and Yates Streets, who have placed it in their window.

BUILD HOMES

To the Editor:—Of the many suggestions and proposals that have been made in the press and by speakers at meetings of different clubs and societies for the purpose of forming some plan to increase trade and employment, about the best idea is the one to build a large number of moderate price homes of four or five rooms, with sufficient garden space adjoining. There is a demand, and, in fact, a necessity for several hundred modern dwellings. The construction of them would give employment to large numbers of workmen besides giving the lumber and other industries a much-needed boost.

Although there are several vacant houses in the city, very few of them are real homes, and in fact a large percentage of the occupied dwellings are unsanitary and of poor construction, and in winter bitterly cold and unhealthy. No better use of our surplus capital and idle skilled help could be made than in an organized programme of building construction.

EVOLUTION

To the Editor:—A letter from Rev. G. F. Cox invites some mild criticism. I have not read Dr. Boyle's letter on the same subject, but I gather it relates to a more rational or evolved basis of evolution, and should therefore appeal to all intelligent people. It is not necessary to discard the Bible, but to use one's judgment in accepting its statements.

God is the author of the Bible, says the Rev. G. F. Cox, but to that must be added the statement that He had no part in its translation. Many mistakes and interpolations have to be reckoned with, some of which completely reverse the original meaning. For instance, I believe that the highest authority that the very first line in Genesis contains a serious misrepresentation—the original text having the word God written in the plural, so that it reads Gods (or gods) created the heaven and the earth.

Apart from this, however, there is spiritual law against working out one's own salvation. There are various pains and penalties hinted at by the Church, but Christ's salvation is free to accept or reject. God is a God of Justice, and surely rational human beings are allowed a choice in matters which concern them so intimately.

Any man who prefers to do so should be allowed to work out his own salvation in his own way, taking his own punishment or reward (if any). Such a man is much more to be respected than one who, looking for short cuts to salvation, loads his sins on the shoulders of another and goes on his way rejoicing. Indeed, I am ready to believe that if one wishes to get off to a "good start" in the next world, a deathbed repentance is the heaviest handicap one could carry. EVOLUTIONIST.

SHOULD BACK IT UP

To the Editor:—A letter appeared recently in the correspondence column of your valuable paper signed by one who subscribes himself or herself a resident of Ganges. In this letter your correspondent makes a scurrilous and unjustifiable attack as regards moral conditions on this beautiful island of ours.

One has nothing but contempt for a person who hides behind a non de plume to deliver a poisonous attack like this. Would it not be better if your correspondent first got rid of the beam in his own eye and cleaned up his own morals before calling on old-timers and public organizations up here to do so? Anyway, Mr. Editor, do you not agree with me that it would be more to the point if your correspondent had approached some of the old-timers and public organizations to which he refers instead of using valuable space in your paper with unadulterated piffle of this nature, knowing that he is safe because anonymous.

We challenge your correspondent to come out into the open and let us know who is our defamer.

WOMEN'S UNEMPLOYMENT DEPARTMENT

To the Editor:—In the interests of the women's workroom, I should like the public to take up the cause in connection with the scarcity of material to work up into saleable garments. It is quite evident that the Social Service League in all quarters cannot cope with the situation for the future, if the good work is to be continued.

There are quite a number of good tradeswomen at present among the 100 unemployed. Why, then, could not the government take up the matter and help to supply good new material to make up. The workroom is meanwhile well equipped with machines and other tools for knitting and sewing. If the goods were made up of new and good materials a much better market could be forthcoming than by selling old second-hand clothing of which there

Many Fine Features In New Ford Model

Fine Lines, Speed, Roominess
Feature V-8 to Be Introduced Thursday

President Says Announcement
Demonstrates Confidence of Organization

East Windsor, March 29.—The new Ford V-8 will be presented to the Canadian public next Thursday, Wallace R. Campbell, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, announced today. One of the most important factors in the announcement, Mr. Campbell said, is the confidence shown by the entire Ford organization that a measure of business revival is possible at this time. "We are convinced that our public duty lies in doing everything possible to start employment again," said Mr. Campbell. "For months we have labored with that objective in view, now we are ready to go ahead. As quickly as we find it possible production will be increased at our main factory and branches.

"Manufacturers who supply us with products also will increase their output. The announcement of the new Ford car, therefore, in our opinion, should give a definite impetus to industrial activity in Canada. "The principle objective in our plans toward this end was the development of an eight-cylinder engine with plenty of power, yet so simply designed that its simplicity would be as important a feature as its speed and power. We sought to develop a car which would be a great advance over former automobile values in every respect, yet which could be built and sold at a price which would fit the average pocketbook. We have accomplished what we set out to do. Next Thursday the public may judge our work."

A FOUR AS WELL

"In addition to our V-8 cylinder car of sixty-five horsepower, we are offering a four-cylinder car of fifty horsepower. Either may be had in fourteen different body types. Except for the engines there is very little difference between the two cars. Bodies and chassis are practically the same, but there will, however, be a difference in price. The V-8 car will sell in the low-price field which has always been dominated by the Ford car. The four-cylinder car will sell for still less.

"That is our conception of our duty to the public at this time and of the service which we should render, particularly in the face of present economic conditions."

Complete details of the new V-8 cylinder Ford car will be made public here to-day by Mr. Campbell. The new Ford is large, long, roomy, fast, powerful and alert. Its V-8 engine develops sixty-five horsepower. The car is capable of seventy-five miles an hour.

Numerous mechanical improvements are incorporated in the new car. These embrace a silent, synchronized gear shift and silent second gear, rubber engine mountings, down-draft carburetor, automatic spark control, fuel pump and rear fuel tank. Other features include soft flexible springs, self-adjusting double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, large mechanical four-wheel brakes, small, strong electrically-actuated steel-spoke wheels with large hubs and hub caps and large tires. The chassis and running gear are cushioned by rubber insulators in the spring shackles and shock absorber links. The body is insulated from the frame by rubber pads.

GRACEFUL MODEL

The new bodies are fresh and modern from the gracefully rounded V-type radiator to rear bumper. The stream lines are carried out by the long hood with its rustless steel centre strip, the slanting safety glass windshield and slanting roof line. The convex lamps, full crowned fenders and long, low running board harmonize with the balance of the design.

Body interiors are roomy and richly furnished. Seats are of new style, designed for utmost comfort. Driver seats in all closed cars are adjustable. A large ventilator is provided in the cowl. The instrument panel is oval and has a rustless steel moulding. Inside sun visors, which fold out of the way when not in use, are provided in all closed cars.

The new Ford V-8 engine is compact and remarkably free from vibration. Frequent and overlapping impulses deliver the power in a smooth, constant flow. The engine is of the ninety-degree V-type, developing sixty-five brake horsepower at 3,400 r.p.m. The sixty-five-pound crankshaft is of the ninety-degree type, with its four cranks at right angles to each other.

BALANCED PARTS

The crankshaft is statically and dynamically balanced and its throws counterbalanced. The crankshaft, connecting rods and pistons also are in balance so that the engine operates with remarkable smoothness at all speeds. Pistons are of aluminum alloy and have three rings, the lower acting as an oil-control ring. Cylinder blocks and crankcase are cast in one unit giving exceedingly rigid engine construction. New type,

COLLECTOR IS SUPERANNATED

Harry L. Good of Nanaimo
Ends Fifty Years' Service
on Thursday

Special to The Times
Nanaimo, March 29.—After fifty years' service with the Dominion Government, Harry L. Good, for thirty years customs officer here, will retire on superannuation on Thursday. He was born in Dorchester in 1863 and came to Victoria in 1886 on the Princess Royal. Captain Good, his father, was the first collector of Indian revenue appointed for the Dominion in British Columbia.

Mr. Good was educated at the Collegiate School, Victoria, being a schoolmate of Premier Tolmie. He entered government service in 1881, and assisted in laying the first British cable across the Straits. He was transferred to the Dominion Railway service, and worked on building the railway from North Bend to Lytton.

He was appointed to Koksilah and then to Nanaimo, where he entered the customs service in 1901, being promoted to collector fourteen years later.

In 1922 Mr. Good married the daughter of the late Col. John Tryst-Clark, and has two sons, Richard and Lambert, both of whom served in the Great War. Mr. Good will continue to reside in Nanaimo.

The rugged new double-drop frame is formed to the shape of the body and, with the new low rear spring, provides a low centre of gravity with consequent increase in roadability.

The riding comfort of the car is due to many factors, but particularly to the new flexible springs, large tires, rubber insulation and the newly designed shock absorbers.

Two new features have been incorporated in the hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers. One is a thermostat control which compensates for varying temperature conditions, and the other a special valve which automatically lessens the effect of sudden road shocks.

The Ford rear spring is of new design. It is mounted on perches at the rear of the axle housing; and bowed out so as to clear the differential housing. The brakes have a braking surface of 186 square inches. Wheels are 18 inches in diameter. The large hubs enclose the bolts which attach the wheel to the drum. There are thirty-two steel spokes, sharply pitched and electrically welded to the drop centre rim and hub shell, forming an unusually strong unit. Tires are 18x35 inches. Each is balanced to prevent "trembling" or vibration at high speeds.

The drive is of the torque tube type, the drive shaft being of tubular construction.

Pistons and valves are oiled by spray and splash.

A fan of airplane propeller type and two centrifugal water pumps, together with the large surface of the radiator, insure ample cooling under all driving conditions.

one-piece valves operate directly off the camshaft without push rods.

Connecting rods from opposite pistons are placed side by side on each crankshaft throw. These are mounted on new floating steel bushings, babitted inside and out, which serve to give the benefit of the full crankpin bearing area to each connecting rod thus affording longer wear.

A cast aluminum cover embracing the intake manifold forms the top of the engine, giving it an unusually finished appearance. The down-draft carburetor and the fuel pump are mounted on this cover.

The gas is preheated in the intake manifold by a hot spot created by hot exhaust gases surging back and forth through a small passage in the manifold cover plate. Exhaust ports are on the outside of the engine blocks, the left exhaust pipe being carried around the front of the engine.

ATMOSPHERIC SPARK CONTROL
The distributor operates directly off the front end of the camshaft without interposed gears. Spark control is automatic. Crankshaft and crankpin bearings are lubricated by pressure as the main bearings of the camshaft, of 186 square inches. Wheels are 18

MANY GUESTS AT WEDDING

Miss Winifred Sheret and Mr. Nelson Hicks Married Yesterday Evening

Pretty Ceremony at First United Church; Followed By Big Reception

The First United Church was beautifully decorated with masses of flowers for the pretty ceremony yesterday evening, which united in marriage Miss Winifred Sheret, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Sheret, 110 Medina Street, and Mr. Nelson Hicks, 330 Trutch Street. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., officiated in the presence of a congregation which filled the church.

Easter lilies, daffodils and crocuses were used in decoration of the pulpit, and six floral arches spanned the aisle, decorated with orchid wisteria and yellow laburnum and greenery, the decorations representing the handwork of girl friends of the bride, headed by Mrs. V. Lalonde and Miss Marjorie Watson. A beautiful arch of greenery and flowers was also erected behind the pulpit, beneath which the bridal pair stood during the ceremony.

Entering the church with her father to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," played by W. H. Davis, the bride was an attractive figure in her lovely gown of white satin, moulded to the form, with sleeveless bodice and skirt, which fell to the ground in graceful flares. Her veil of silk-embroidered net, with insertions of Chantilly lace, was worn with a lace cap embroidered with pearls and caught at the nape of the neck with orange blossoms. A cascade of the blossoms marking each ear. She carried a shawl bouquet of opheelia roses, lilies of the valley, white heather and maidenhair fern.

There were four bridal attendants, all dressed alike in attractive frocks of silk net, with close-fitting bodices and full skirts flared from the waist to hemline, with which they wore polka-dotted chachalis hats, shirred with red and trimmed with satin ribbon and a cluster bow on one side and silk mitts and shoes to match their gowns. They carried Colonial bouquets filled with tulips, white lilies, white carnations and Miss Gladys Sheret, the maid of honor, and Miss Marjorie Watson, bridesmaid, were in orchid net, and the other two bridesmaids, Miss Doris Banks and Miss Richard Zala, were in white tulle, wearing a suit of white satin and velvet.

William Newcombe was groomsmen and the ushers were Messrs. Robert Sheret, brother of the bride; Joseph Ross, Homer Caviness and Alfred Atherton.

During the signing of the register Miss Beatrice Hicks sang "The Hallelujah" by Hayden-Wood.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the New Thought Hall, Fort Street, the hall being lavishly decorated for the event. The bride and groom stood to receive their many guests beneath a wedding bell suspended from an arch of greenery and flowers, arranged by Mrs. H. K. Price and others.

NEW PRESERVING OF FRUIT JUICES

By Howard W. Blakeslee, Associated Press Science Editor
New Orleans, La., March 29.—Possibility that Byrd's men on his next polar expedition can sit in their winter huts and drink juices as fresh as if from ripe fruit picked five minutes before, became almost real at the American Chemical Society here yesterday. Recent discoveries which put this long sought achievement close at hand were reported by M. A. Joslyn of the University of California.
His report concerned oranges, but the discoveries apply to other fruits and vegetables. He spoke at a symposium of a dozen papers of the progress of quick freezing methods toward eliminating the necessity for gathering plant foods, green or even of deteriorating, in the months between producer and the dinner table.
The first step with orange juice was freezing at zero. This delivered six months later a perfectly preserved and healthful juice, but the flavor was poor. Further experiments eliminated the bad flavor obstacles, but Dr. Joslyn does not guarantee no others will appear, but the biggest handicaps are over.
C. A. Magoon of the U.S. Bureau of Plant Industry said the old idea that freezing destroyed the bacteria must be revised. He found them still alive and working after ten hours at 352 degrees below freezing centigrade.

POPOVERS GIVE VARIETY TO MENU
 A happy change from the muffins and biscuits so generally served is found in a plate of hot popovers. Strangely enough, however, they are an unknown realm to many a housewife and she hesitates to include them in her menu. Yet the secret of delicate popovers lies in the simple factor—temperature.

Popovers in the making call for simple materials—always at hand—milk, flour, eggs and salt. Milk is eighty per cent water and when an intense heat is suddenly applied to the popovers, the water rapidly changes to steam. Steam is, of course, many times the volume of water and consequently stretches the gluten walls of the flour to their utmost, and with the help of the egg forms the hollow shell of the popover. This explains the necessity of preheating the pans as well as the oven.

If the oven and pans are not hot the change from water to steam is slow, the expansion is small, the steam escapes and the popovers seldom "pop." So make sure of your temperature and you will make sure of your popovers.

Iron or cast aluminum gem pans and glass or earthenware custard cups are suitable for popover making. The lighter weight gem pans may be used, but the popovers do not always "pop" satisfactorily.

USES IN MENU VARY
 Popovers make a most acceptable course for cold chicken or fish. They are also good as a dessert with a sauce poured over them. Piping hot from the oven with fresh maple syrup poured over them, they make a delicious seasonal piece of apple, peach or other fruit can be dropped into the batter in each cup before baking and bake in the usual manner. Or make the popovers as usual, then cut a slit in the side as soon as they are removed from the oven and insert a few spoonfuls of custard, preserve or jam.

Serve with plain or whipped cream.

The following rule makes twelve popovers of two-inch iron gem-pans size.

POPOVERS
 Two eggs, 1 cup bread flour, 1 scant cup milk, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon melted butter.
 Heat oven to 450 degrees Fahrenheit.
 Mix and sift flour and salt. Beat eggs slightly in a bowl with a Dover beater. Add melted butter and continue to beat until the mixture is smooth and full of bubbles. Heat muffin pans until hissing hot and grease them thoroughly. Fill each pan half full of popover batter and bake at once in preheated oven. Bake for twenty minutes at this temperature, then lower the temperature to 350 degrees and continue baking for twenty minutes. Turn off heat and let stand in oven for five minutes. Serve at once.

Popovers should be nicely browned, more than double in height, very light and hollow inside.

TO-MORROW'S MENU
 Breakfast—Halves of grapefruit, cereal, cream, scrambled eggs, whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.
 Luncheon—Popovers filled with creamed dried beef, molded spinach salad, rice and pineapple pudding, grape juice.
 Dinner—English mutton chops, scalloped potatoes, stewed tomatoes, raw turnip and lettuce salad, quince Bavarian cream, milk, coffee.

TWO "STROLLING PLAYERS" ARRIVE

Misses Joan and Betty Rayner of New Zealand Evolve Novel Entertainment

In these days of competition between the movies and the "legitimate" stage it requires genius of an unusual kind to evolve an entertainment which will have a continuous run at one theatre for over two years. Yet this feat was achieved in Melbourne, Australia, by two young New Zealanders, the Misses Joan and Betty Rayner, who arrived from the Antipodes a few days ago on their first visit to Canada. They left yesterday for Vancouver to give a demonstration of their art before the B.C. Teachers' Federation at its convention, now being held there.

MODERN TROUBADOURS
 Calling themselves the "Strolling Players," these vivacious daughters from "down under" have evolved an entertainment which is, fundamentally, an artistic and yet amusing dramatization of the quaint folk songs and legends of many countries, of rollicking ballads of bygone days, and of funny little plays taken from the dramatic history of many nations, all done in appropriate costume.

The idea of such an entertainment was born in England, where Miss Joan Rayner underwent a rigorous training for five years in London, learning the groundwork upon which she and her sister have built a superstructure of delightful and unusual character. They have patterned their idea upon the strolling players or troubadours who used to wander all over Europe singing their songs beneath castle walls, and the days of Merlin, and the material upon which it is based they have obtained after ceaseless research, including many months spent delving into historical and ancient books and documents at the British Museum, London.

4,000 MILES BY CARAVAN
 In addition to appearing in the big cities of Australia and New Zealand, the Misses Rayner presented their entertainment in the more remote districts, travelling by the novel means of a caravan. They traveled 4,000 miles by this method and met with many amusing experiences. At the close of their trip they flew 1,400 miles over the Australian deserts, the speedy and modern method of transportation offering, as they said to a Times representative yesterday, a thrilling contrast to the leisurely and primitive method of progress of their caravan tour.

Several years ago these young "strolling players" presented their novel entertainment in New York, where it was warmly acclaimed by the critics. Their present visit was originally planned with the idea of fulfilling engagements in the United States, but the present immigration law have changed their plans and they will, instead, appear in eastern Canada.

Alberta Teachers Also Discuss Pension Scheme and Provincial Salary Schedule

Canadian Press
 Calgary, March 29.—Opposition to closing of schools in various Alberta districts as a provincial government economy measure was voiced at the annual convention here of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance.

Referring to reports the government intended taking such steps, J. W. Barnett, general secretary of the alliance, said some method should be found to prevent impairment of "our greatest resource—the young people of our land."

Both Mr. Barnett and C. O. Hicks, retiring president, urged the government to inaugurate a teachers' pension scheme and a provincial salary schedule, maintaining a minimum wage. Mr. Hicks recommended extension of educational services to include vocational branches.

FASHION PLAQUE

This is the large square mesh, shown in the new hosiery hose.

Of $17,500,000,000 business capital employed in Canada at the beginning of 1930, it is estimated that 65 per cent or $11,375,000,000 was owned in Canada, 13 per cent or $2,225,000,000 in Great Britain, 21 per cent or $3,725,000,000 in the United States, and 1 per cent or $171,300,000 in other countries.

A recent census of industry report shows that at the close of 1930 there were 167 establishments in Canada engaged in producing hosiery and knit goods and fabric gloves and mittens, combined production in these lines reaching a value of $54,117,925 against $61,097,752 in 1929.

During the last two years notable expansion has taken place in the manufacturing of fertilizers in Canada with several new plants started up in the eastern provinces and a large plant built in British Columbia.

ENAMELED HAIR IS LATEST FAD

Colored, Metallic Powder to Match Evening Gown Used on Hair

Chicago, March 29.—Powdered hair in the modern manner—colored to match the evening gown and enameled (not lacquered) to hold the ends in place—made its debut yesterday at the annual Midwest Beauty Industry Show.

As described by E. Rohrer, Chicago hair-dresser, the colored powder, gently streaked with metallic, is put on the hair when it is waved and set. If the wearer desires two colors the crests of the waves are tinted with the usual manner. Or make the popovers as usual, then cut a slit in the side as soon as they are removed from the oven and insert a few spoonfuls of custard, preserve or jam.

To get it out a dry-cleaner is used, he said.

Among the host of other late ideas in gliding the human hair, it was learned that:

Hair with one or two streaks of powder in gold, silver or colors and enameled is also very new for evening wear.

LONG BOB PASSE
 Bobbed hair is the thing, but the long bob has decidedly gone the way of the short skirt.

Platinum blonde has been supplanted by brown, auburn, for red hair is the present ruling favorite.

Bangs are in, only they are not called bangs but feathers, which is descriptive of fringed ends.

COLORED EYELASHES
 The eyes are going to have "it" when midday saunters forth in the evening—if she adopts the optical makeup suggested by the show.

The "windows of the soul" are in for much and varied coloration, of a kind not even ventured by Pocahontas.

Eyelashes are made up to match the gown—green, frock, green-tinted lashes. If one wants to carry the color scheme on—green finger nails and green toe nails peering out a la nude from sandal tips or gleaming through the sheer handkerchief which is sans toe reinforcement.

Truly, the new ideas in optical makeup go the rainbow one better.

The very latest thing in eye-shadow sparkles with bits of metallic. It comes in bronze flecked with gold or the colors shining with gold or silver. When carefully applied it adds color and life to the eyes.

A thirty-eight-pound Tyee salmon, 3 feet 9 inches long, caught by the King of Siam in British Columbia waters last August, will be added to the trophies in the Grand Palace at Bangkok.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRID

DON'T THRUST TIMID CHILD INTO ARMS OF STRANGERS

If most of baby's hours are spent alone with his mother, he is very apt to exhibit timidity in the presence of strangers. Even when small, the baby will turn away from strange faces, ducking his head in his mother's shoulder and refusing to look up. Perhaps this sense of fear may go to such lengths that he cannot be taken away from home into a shop, or strangers cannot come into the home without the baby's crying pitifully and clinging to his mother. Sometimes, of course, these manifestations mean only that the baby dislikes sharing his mother's attention. Having been the centre of her interest, he finds that strangers snatch this away from him. He may not fear strangers, but dislikes them because in their presence he feels alone and neglected.

USUAL POLICY

Naturally a mother is baffled and annoyed by such actions. She wants to do something about it. And the first thing everyone advises her to do is to go right on making the child accept the attention of strangers whether he likes them or not, until he outgrows his fears.

If such methods were successful, I'd advise them, too. But they are not. They ignore the very cause of the child's fears. They only serve to increase the child's timidity unless the cause of his timidity is removed. That takes longer, but it's more effective.

INDEPENDENCE

At home he should learn gradually to get along without so much attention from his mother. Thus he learns to be independent. I have a leaflet, "Teaching Child to Become Independent," detailing the wisest course for the mother. Any mother whose baby is clinging too closely to her for companionship should be interested in this leaflet. Send only a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Mrs. Eldred of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper. Ask for the leaflet by name.

We must admit that whether or not the child has anything to fear, he thinks he has. The experience of being grabbed and kissed and exclaimed over by strangers is intensely disagreeable to him. Children don't get accustomed to unpleasant things.

WHAT SHOULD HAPPEN

The mother's policy should be a passive not an active one. The child's courage in the presence of strangers should rise because he discovers by actual experience that he has nothing to fear from them. Never misty or crying baby into the arms of a stranger. Let her ignore him if she discovers he is afraid. Ignore his fretfulness if he fusses in the room, or put him in a room alone. Don't force him to accept anyone's attention.

The adults whom children like best never force their attentions upon them. They sit quietly and let the timid souls come up to them and forgo to cry. Their complete indifference to him has wiped away his fears.

To-morrow: "Don't coax baby to eat unless you want a behavior problem."

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART

Hair is having its fling this year. A few years ago, the way you made up your mouth made all the difference in the world. Later, eyes were supposed to reflect "it" and you bent every effort to do them justice.

Right now, your hair is the biggest asset you have, if you do your best with it. Its color makes little difference. Whether it is eyes were supposed to reflect "it" straight or curly makes little difference, also, for there are wonderful new ways of waving hair and there are some hairdressers who understand how distinguished straight-haired women can be.

It does not even matter to-day if your hair is thin or thick. All the old standards of beautiful hair have gone by the board, with the exception of one. That is its glossiness. Hair has always been spoken of as a halo, a crown of glory and other descriptive ways of meaning that it has a sheen. Does your hair have sheen? Well, it should. And there are ways of inducing sheen.

Health is the first fundamental that you must consider. If you are burning the candle at both ends, your hair will grow drab and show you up far more than any other part of your body. Get your full amount of good, unbroken sleep on an excellent bed, with plenty of fresh air playing about you.

Next, your diet tells on your hair. When you are buoyantly alive and alert, with your body functioning properly, your hair reflects it again. Eat plenty of fruits, fresh vegetables, go on a liquid diet for lunch and get in good shape.

Last, and very important, take care of your hair's health. It, too, needs sunshine, fresh air, rest from hats, exercise.

My advice to everybody whose hair is not gleaming with a sheen is to get some treatments. Go without lunches and save enough for a treatment and some tonic. Follow every move that your hairdresser makes in treating your hair and brushing your hair. Go home and do that likewise. Mornings and evenings. Liven up the old scalp. Brush up the hair. Massage and put zest and sparkle into your old top.

Pupils' Dance Recital—Mrs. Georgina Watt, well-known contralto, will assist at the dance recital by pupils of Jenny Boyd, to be held at St. Aidan's Hall, Mount Tolmie, Thursday. An interesting programme has been arranged of national and folk dancing, also an exhibition of old-time dancing. A humorous sketch will conclude the programme. Accompanists for the evening will be Mrs. Harry Silver, Rita Whittaker, L.T.C.M., and Bob Taylor.

DEVIL VINES

There is a tropical vine called the devil vine. It is a graceful thing with a beautiful and unusual flower.

The reason for the unflattering name of the southern beauty is this: It asserts itself wherever it happens to be growing, and twists and twines around other vegetation until it smothers out life. People who have gardens weed out this usurper wherever it puts in an appearance, because it refuses to allow more generous flowers to surpass it.

Flowers are wonderfully like people and in observing this determined-but delicate-looking bit of flora I found its counterpart in children.

There is a type of child who resembles this devil vine. Quite unconsciously he or she, subjugates all other children with whom he associates by sheer force of personality and will.

SO LEADERS ARE MADE

It is not uncomplimentary to him of such stuff are great men and women made. They are born leaders and it seems that humanity needs people who are leaders. But the nature of mature people is a different matter from the self-imposed and often selfish child who usurps other children's rights and personalities.

I know of one family where the second child, a girl, happened to be born with all the qualities of leadership. She was brilliant, likeable and determined.

In a few years her older brother and her younger sister were at a stage when their own development had ceased. They bowed to her rule, began to think and act as she acted, patterned everything they did after her. Of course, in the process they lost their own self confidence and had to refer to her for advice constantly.

By the time she was grown this brother and other sister were entirely dependent on her. Her parents, too, had become spiritually atrophied and conformed to the stronger will of their child.

PIONEER DIES

Penticton, B.C., March 29.—Arbuckle Jardine, seventy-six, a prominent figure in the pioneer commercial development of the prairies and for many years in the insurance business, died here Sunday after an illness of nearly a month.

Mr. Jardine was born in Toronto. He came west to Port Arthur in 1879 and to Winnipeg in 1882, where he entered the wholesale grocery business. Ten years later he associated himself with the founding of the Great West Life Company and was secretary and assistant general manager. He retired from active participation in 1927 and removed to San Antonio, Texas.

He also leaves a daughter, Mrs. G. D. Haddock, of Syracuse, New York, who arrived here last week. Two brothers, Samuel and Thomas, and two sisters live in Toronto.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Cow's Bell

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

"Don't worry, Mrs. Milk," said Uncle Wiggily, kindly. "Everything is going to be all right, I'm sure."
"Oh, how can you say so?" moaned the cow lady with whom Uncle Wiggily was walking in the woods. "I'm lost, at least the milkman doesn't know where to find me because the tinkling bell dropped off my neck. And what am I to do?"
"Don't worry," said the rabbit gentleman again. "I'm sure I can take you to a place where the milkman can find you, even if you have no tinkling bell. You say you can't blow one of your horns?" he asked. "If you could that would be just fine. It would make more noise than the bell."
"Of course I can't blow my horn," said Mrs. Milk. "No cow can blow her own horn."
"Excuse me, I didn't know," said Mr. Longears. "I saw the horns on your head and of course I thought at least one of them could be blown. But if it can't—"

"Of course it can't," interrupted Mrs. Milk. "There's no use talking about it."

He tried to blow

"But if you are going to lead me back where the milkman can find me, it's time we started," said Uncle Wiggily.
"True enough," said Uncle Wiggily. "Follow me, if you please."
So the cow lady followed the rabbit through the woods. Uncle Wiggily had come out a short time before to find and adventure and he had met Mrs. Milk, the cow lady. She had a bell on her neck and when she was hidden deep in the woods the milkman could always find her by following the sound of the tinkling bell. But in going through the bushes, the bell fell off the cow's neck.
"And I'm sure I don't know what I'm going to do without my bell," moaned Mrs. Milk.
"It is rather bad luck," agreed Uncle Wiggily, "especially as you say you can't blow either of your horns to make a noise."
"No, I can't," moaned the cow, "and

I wish you'd stop talking about my horns."

"Do you mind if I try to blow one?" asked the rabbit. "Perhaps I could, and a good horn-toot would let the milkman know where you are as well as if you tinkled your bell. May I blow your horn?"
"Oh, try it if you like," said the cow, patient like and resigned. "But you'll find you can't, Mr. Longears."
Uncle Wiggily climbed upon a stump near which the cow stood, as she was quite tall. In this way the rabbit could reach the tip of one of Mrs. Milk's horns. Putting his lips to it, Uncle Wiggily tried to blow a blast on the horn, but of course all he did was to puff out his cheeks. Try as he did he could make no sound.

"I told you so," moaned the cow. "My horns are hollow, it is true, and if you could get one off my head you might blow it. But while on my head my horns can't be blown."

"So I see," said Uncle Wiggily. "Well, then we must wander along without tinkling a bell or tooting a horn until we find the milkman."

Just then, all of a sudden, there was a noise in the bushes and out jumped the Woosie Wolf.

"Oh, ho! I've caught Uncle Wiggily!" howled the Woosie Wolf.
"Not yet you haven't!" moaned the cow lady. "My horns may be no good for blowing," she went on, "but they are good enough to tickle you in the ribs, Mr. Wolf!"

With that the cow lady tickled the Woosie Wolf so hard in the ribs with the end of one horn that the Bad Chap was glad enough to run away. He was angry but at the same time he couldn't help laughing because the cow had tickled him so hard with her horn.

"Thanks for saving me," Mrs. Milk, said Uncle Wiggily. "Now if I could only find the way back for you to the milkman, so you would not be lost, I could pay you for the favor you did me."

"Oh, don't mention it," moaned Mrs. Milk. "One should not do favors for the sake of having another favor done. I dare say we shall find our way out of these woods sooner or later."

Just then Uncle Wiggily stepped on something that tinkled and rang. Looking down in the weeds the rabbit saw something shining.

"I've found your bell, Mrs. Milk," he cried. "Here it is, strap and all!"
"We're all right!" Then Mr. Longears standing on another stump, fastened the bell about the cow's neck. She shook her head, the bell rang and the milkman, who was in the woods searching for his cow, heard the tinkling sound and came and took Mrs. Milk home to her stable. Uncle Wiggily hopped to his bungalow and everything was just fine and dandy. And if the bottle of cream isn't too proud to walk to the front steps with the condensed milk, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the baby carriage.

"No, I can't," moaned the cow, "and

"But if you are going to lead me back where the milkman can find me, it's time we started," said Uncle Wiggily.
"True enough," said Uncle Wiggily. "Follow me, if you please."
So the cow lady followed the rabbit through the woods. Uncle Wiggily had come out a short time before to find and adventure and he had met Mrs. Milk, the cow lady. She had a bell on her neck and when she was hidden deep in the woods the milkman could always find her by following the sound of the tinkling bell. But in going through the bushes, the bell fell off the cow's neck.

"And I'm sure I don't know what I'm going to do without my bell," moaned Mrs. Milk.

Their eyes met in silent duel. Then the stranger eased his position, slipping his hands into his pockets.

"Have you got a gun?" the girl's voice, quivered.

"I wish I had," he growled. "Seem to be useful when you're arguing with women. Now, for God's sake, will you listen to me for two minutes?"

Well—she pointed to an object in the corner of the room. "See that traveling bag?" he said. "There's a leather bag on the handle with a name and address on it. Look at it!"

Suddenly their positions had changed. The girl obeyed meekly. The heavy pigskin bag bore the name James R. Wallace. Gypsy read it aloud.

"That's a name I've heard of," she said. "Probably you won't believe that my name and my traveling bag. There's nothing else to do but get hold of Phil."

He had started toward the door. "All right," the bass voice was commanding. "Probably you won't believe that my name and my traveling bag. There's nothing else to do but get hold of Phil."

"I don't like parties, either," said the girl. "I was running away from this one."

"That so? Interesting. My unusual mode of entrance" (he waved toward the window) "was prompted by the same idea."

Gypsy had sunk into a chair. "Is it really true that you're stopping here?" Anne didn't say anything about having a house guest.

"Anne didn't know I was in town. She thought I was having dinner with some people out on Long Island. Then I changed my plans and didn't want to take a chance on running into her dinner guests. Happens to me all the time. I could go to the floor above and come down the fire escape. Wait a minute—maybe this'll convince you I'm not lying."

He pulled a collection of letters and papers from his inner coat pocket, hastily searching through the pile.

"Here—saved it for the address." The young man held toward her a letter on Phil Trowbridge's office stationery. Gypsy read it hastily, saw the signature.

The girl smiled uncertainly. "I'm convinced," she said. "Excuse me for mistaking you for a burglar." She paused, then added: "Maybe I ought to introduce myself. I'm Gypsy McBride—Anne's cousin."

"How do you do?" Wallace took off his hat, then said: "You see, I've occurred to Gypsy that all through the interview the young man had not smiled. He had blue eyes, very level in their gaze, and hair of a reddish cast. Gypsy's features improved by a good chin, but Gypsy did not notice that. A young man one might look at twice because of his strapping physique and the way he carried his shoulders. Gypsy, looking at him more carefully noticed the well tailored blue suit. And she had thought him a burglar!"

Instead of smiling or showing any friendliness Wallace growled: "Better run along back to your bridge game now," he said. "They'll be looking for you."

"I'm not going back."

"What's the matter? Don't like the party? Then what did you come for?" Gypsy's dark eyes met the blue ones.

"I don't want anybody else," she said, then continued: "You see, I'm Anne's cousin, but I really don't belong here. This isn't even my dress—it's Anne's. Anne just asked me because someone else couldn't come. I work—"

Suddenly she stopped, smiling ruefully.

"I mean I did work," Gypsy corrected herself. "I'm a typist—but I threw up my job this afternoon."

"What are you going to do now?" "I don't know. Look for something else I suppose. I haven't thought about it."

Wallace leaned forward. "Don't do it," he said. "I've got a better idea. Let's get married!"

"Is that supposed to be a joke?" Gypsy asked. She was not smiling. Her dark eyes, studying Wallace, looked wide and childish.

"Do I look as though I were joking?" he asked. "Do I look as though I should be trying to get married. I mean it!"

"But what—"

"Listen, this will be the most sensible marriage you ever heard of. Now wait a minute! She saw that the girl was about to interrupt and hurried on: "Doesn't it strike you as a coincidence that out of this whole city full of people you and I should meet to-night? And that both of us should be trying to forget somebody else? Forget—say, you and I are just a couple of saps who don't realize how lucky we are. Do you want that guy, whoever he is, to know you're miserable, wishing he would come back to you?"

"No," said Gypsy, emphatically. "Then instead of mooning over him prepare for your wedding morn—"

"I see what you mean," the girl said slowly. "You want to marry me to make—her—sorry she treated you so badly. That's what you're thinking about, isn't it?"

"Well, what if I am? It works the same way for you, doesn't it? And it's a hundred times better reason for getting married than most people have. Romantic nonsense—say, it makes me sick!"

"You're pretty bitter, aren't you?"

Gypsy asked. "I don't blame you for feeling that way but I couldn't marry you."

"Why not?"

"Well, it just isn't my idea of a marriage, that's all."

"Do you like this town?" Wallace asked.

Gypsy considered. "I thought I did," she said. "I've always lived here. But now I'm leaving."

"Getting out of here to-morrow morning myself," said the young man. "Glad of it. Two days of New York is plenty. Lord—I'll be glad to be on my way back to Forest City."

"What's it like there?"

"Oh, you probably wouldn't think it was so much. Little place—compared with New York. We think it's quite a metropolis out there. He told her about the city 500 miles westward where the Wallaces had always lived. Forest City boasted a population of 200,000 citizens. It had a Chamber of Commerce that was "boasting" it and two country clubs.

"I'll get there," he said. "At 6.30 to-morrow night. Then I'll go out to the house and before I've had a chance to get off my coat Aunt Elsie will be telling me that the roast is getting cold and to hurry and come to the table."

Wallace laughed shortly. "There's one person who's getting a break—Aunt Elsie! I've lived with her ever since I was a kid. Parents died. She was going to move next month. Rented a little place across the street but I don't think she really liked the idea. Fond of the old house. Well—she won't need to move now!"

There was a brief silence. Then Gypsy said: "Were you to be married soon?"

"Next month. But instead of waiting a month for me the young lady is going to stroll up to the altar one week from next Saturday with young Brock Phillips, polo player, bon vivant and awfully awfully well fixed with cash. Sole heir to papa's millions."

"Was that just to-night that she told you?"

Wallace nodded. He glanced at the watch on his wrist. "Approximately one hour and a half ago," he said. "You can imagine that it rather changed my plans for the evening. Changed them considerably. At that, I'm not so badly off as you. You're out of a job! Why did you give up the one you had? Don't you know that was foolish?"

"Yes," said Gypsy. "And I'd do it again to-morrow."

"What was the matter with the place?"

"Nothing. Everything! I've worked for the McManera Company three years. Founding typewriters. Filine letters. Dictation. I'm sick of offices and the sound of typewriters—rushing to work mornings and rushing home again at night—that I don't see how I can go back to it. I'm sick of New York. I'd like to get away and forget these is such a place. That town you were telling about—Forest City—sounds wonderful. You'll be glad to get back there. I guess."

Wallace leaned forward. "You can come along," he said. "My offer still holds. And that's something I've never done before—asked a girl to marry me after she's refused once."

The girl looked at him. What she would have answered must remain a mystery, for as Gypsy was about to speak each of them suddenly became aware of a third person. Standing in the doorway in her crimson evening gown, amazed and disapproving, was Anne Trowbridge.

"What in the world—!" Anne began and seemed at a loss for more words.

Of course it was unconventional. Gypsy, reading her cousin's shocked expression, realized this.

"Hello, Anne," she said.

"Come in and hear the news. Mr. Wallace and I are going to be married."

"Congratulations, me, won't you?" Wallace broke in. "You and Phil are invited to the wedding. It's going to be to-morrow. To-morrow morning."

Anne had recovered the power of speech. "Are you two crazy?" she asked. "You don't even know each other! How did you get here, Jim? I thought you were having dinner with your fiancée!"

"And instead you find me the accepted suitor of Fiancee Number Two. Not bad at all for one evening, is it?"

Never more serious in his life, Wallace appreciated it young Mrs. Trowbridge's discomfiture would have been amusing. "Gypsy McBride!" she exclaimed. "You can't do a thing like this! Why, you must be out of your head—"

K. OF C. HAVE ANNIVERSARY

Great Radio Programme and Local Ceremony Will Mark Golden Jubilee This Evening

Local members of the Knights of Columbus will this evening celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the order, in their lodge rooms on Government Street. The celebration will be held in the evening, and will include a radio programme, a banquet, and a social. The Knights of Columbus came into being in Victoria in 1907 when Frank J. Sehl was the first Grand Knight. Since that time a number of Victoria's well-known citizens have been Grand Knights of the local lodge. They included John Hart, Frank I. Doherty, Leo O'Connell, Harry O'Leary, Michael Steele, Patrick Fagan, the late J. D. O'Connell, the late William Sweeney and Moses Doyle. A. G. Morry is the present Grand Knight and he will preside at this evening's ceremony here.

As a special feature of the golden anniversary observance, the Knights will sponsor an unusually fine radio programme, which will be broadcast this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Victoria time, over a nation-wide network of National Broadcasting stations. Supreme Knight Martin H. Carmody of Grand Rapids, Michigan, will be the chief speaker. Charles Hackett, principal tenor with the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and Anna Case (Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay), who has achieved outstanding success with the Metropolitan Opera Company, will provide the musical features of the programme. The Knights of Columbus was started in Connecticut, but has spread to all parts of Canada and the United States, Newfoundland, Mexico, and other parts of the western hemisphere. To-day there are more than 2,500 councils. Some fine work has been done by the various councils. In Victoria, during the war, the local members did a great deal for the Catholic soldiers of the city. In France there were Knights of Columbus units in many parts of the country and following the war the local Knights had an army hut here where they looked after returned soldiers.

Stubbs and Mrs. W. Stubbs Jr. have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Rough for a few days.

Miss Clyne is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. Haddock.

Mrs. L. Fatt has returned after visiting relatives in Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cameron and Mrs. McDonald of Victoria were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McVicar on Good Friday.

R. A. Johnston spent Easter weekend at his home here.

Mrs. F. Ames and daughter Elsie of Victoria visited here at the weekend and attended the dance on Thursday evening.

Mrs. A. Sjoberg was a recent visitor to Victoria.

CHURCH CHOIR WINS PRAISE

Concert at Emmanuel Baptist Church is Notable Success

Under the conductorship of George Green the Emmanuel Baptist Church choir rendered a delightful concert in the church yesterday evening. A number of anthems, beautifully sung, featured the programme which also included several vocal and instrumental solos and of smaller vocal ensembles.

Delivering the numbers with restraint and a fine sense of musical understanding the choir again displayed the results of the excellent foundation laid by the late Fred Parfitt, which Mr. Green is carrying forward. Among the numbers were: "Praise the Lord, O My Soul," "The Crucifixion," and "As Moses Lifted Up the Serpent." (T. Rhodes, basso, carried the solo part), and "God So Loved the World," Green's anthem, "The Wilderness," Macfarren's anthem, "A Day in Thy Courts," Mark's "The Day is Past and Over," in which May Zala's soprano and J. Calhoun's tenor were heard in solo parts, and the jubilation "Magnificat" of Fanning, with both organ and piano accompaniment.

The Misses Netta, Rose and Linda Parfitt rendered Elgar's "How Calm the Evening" and "Lift Thine Eyes" and "Snowflakes." "Listen to the Church Bell" (Roth), "The subject for a hidden chorus, solo parts being taken by Miss Netta Parfitt and Harold Parfitt.

Mr. Green delighted with two cornet solos, "There is a Green Hill Far Away" and "Scatter the Palms." Mrs. Green accompanied on the piano.

The vocal soloists were Miss Gladys Marchant and T. Rhodes, basso. Miss Marchant displayed unusual poise and a well-modulated voice in rendition of "The Lord is My Light" (Allison), "Ships of Arcady" (Head), and "Sylvain" (Sinding). "The Lord is My Rock" was sung by Mr. Rhodes.

In addition to accompanying the singers, Mrs. Green gave a fine piano interpretation of Beethoven's "Sonata Pathétique."

Dr. William Russell was the chairman and the organ accompanists for choral numbers were Miss Sowcroft and Ivor Parfitt.

MYSTERY CALLS BEGAN BANK RUN

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, March 29.—Mysterious telephone calls to depositors advising them to take their money out of the Manitoba savings office preceded the run which led to the closing of the institution, according to evidence given before the special committee of the Manitoba Legislature inquiring into the savings office closing.

Two employees of the savings office told the committee they had been asked about the security of the institution by depositors who said they had become worried. The employees said the telephone calls, inquiries failed to elicit the names of the informants and in some cases depositors stated the receiver had been hung up before they could ask the name.

W. H. Ritchie, a branch manager, said he had quite a number of such calls from customers but would not care to say it looked like an organized thing. He gave the name of one man to the committee privately who, he said, had told him he had been advised by Conservative friends to take his money out. The man had declined to name his informants.

For we'll seldom be warned—either by others or by our own sense of smell. Though pores are constantly giving off odour-causing waste—a quart daily—we quickly become used to an ever-present odour. We're not aware of "B.O." in ourselves but others are.

Play safe—always!

Don't take chances—risk the ruin of your dearest hopes. Adopt the simple safeguard millions of particular men and women use. Wash and bathe often with Lifebuoy to keep pores free from odour.

How gloriously fresh and clean you feel after a Lifebuoy bath! And no wonder. For Lifebuoy's rich, creamy, abundant lather penetrates pores, purifies and deodorizes them. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy gives real protection against "B.O."

FISHING BIG TOURIST LURE

A. G. Bolton Tells Kiwanis Club Causes of Depletion on Island

Making a plea to his hearers to do their utmost in conserving fish on Vancouver Island, not only as means of promoting a pleasant sport, but also as a move to increase the tourist lure of the island, A. G. Bolton, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce special fish and game conservation committee, addressed the Kiwanis club at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel today.

Mr. Bolton referred to the value of fishing as an incentive in bringing tourists to Vancouver Island. Improved fishing facilities would increase the number of visitors, he said.

There were many views on the propagation of trout, he commented, adding that experiments with rearing ponds were proving successful.

The idea of the rearing ponds, he said, was to have each community build its own ponds, with the government paying for the costs of materials. If this system were adopted, fishing could be brought back to its former place on the island, he believed.

Destruction of fish through the loss of watersheds in the province owing to logging, was mentioned by Mr. Bolton.

REFORESTATION.

He suggested reforestation to avoid floods and drought in the rivers.

Placing of retards in rivers, in order to slow down the current and preserve places for feeding were favored by the speaker.

The formation of pools by these retards would also furnish deep water in which fish could find cold water in the summertime, he said.

He strongly criticized the illegal practices of dynamiting fish in the rivers and the use of salmon eggs. The speaker cited an instance in which two men had taken 101 trout out of one river, by using salmon eggs, in one day. It was easy to see what would happen to fishing if that were allowed to continue, he said.

Purse setting near spawning rivers was exacting a great toll on the fish of the island, he said.

OWNER SUES FOR PAYMENTS

Rookland Avenue Apartment Building Subject of Litigation When Instalments Stop

In the Supreme Court this morning Chief Justice Morrison opened trial of the civil action of Mrs. Emma Allen to recover $300 from Mr. and Mrs. Roderick H. McLeod. The claim is for overdue monthly payments on an agreement of sale regarding an apartment building on Rookland Avenue.

The plaintiff said the apartment to the defendant last July for $14,000. A cash payment of $3,000 was made and monthly instalments of $100 on account of principal were agreed to. Defendants were also to pay interest. They kept the terms for three months only, complaining last December of inability to make the monthly payments. ## Judge Gives Reasons For Dismissing Case Against Movie Firms

In Place of Attempts at Price Fixing Between Exchanges, Mr. Justice Garrow Finds There Was at All Times Considerable Rivalry

Detrimental Actions Not Proved By Crown

Standard Contract Held to Be As Much in Interest of Exhibitor as of Distributor; Some Hardships, But No Undue Protection

The full judgment of Mr. Justice Garrow of the Supreme Court of Ontario, dismissing the Crown's prosecution against Famous Players et al has been handed down.

The action was launched by the Attorney-General of Ontario following publication of the report of Peter White, K.C., who was appointed by the Dominion Government to conduct an inquiry under the Combines Investigation Act into the question of distribution of films in Canada.

In regard to the question as to whether motion picture distributors had combined in an attempt to fix prices, Mr. Justice Garrow says:

"It is obvious, I think, at any rate I have no difficulty in coming to the conclusion that there was no attempt of combination to make it difficult for the public to obtain films supplied to them there were theatres to play them in. There has never been an instance of a theatre being obliged to accept the price of the distributor as the general public is concerned, that no complaint whatever is made as to the prices of admission charged, there have been available throughout the year in question many films supplied to them there were theatres to play them in. Bill Peden Deluged With Contracts After New York Win

Victoria Star Will Ride at Montreal and Toronto Soon

New York Writers Praise Peden's Great Strength and Stamina

Lester Patrick Not Surprised at Success of Red-headed Pedaler

SINCE winning the six-day bicycle race in New York recently and finishing second in another event at Philadelphia, Bill Peden, Victoria's famous rider, has been deluged with contracts to take part in six-day events. As a matter of fact, the popular red-head has been tendered more offers than he can handle. Shortly after his New York victory, partnered with Reggie McNamara, Peden was offered a contract to ride in Paris next month, but he had to refuse it as he had signed to ride in Montreal April 18 to 24, and in Toronto May 2 to 8. Bill also expects to ride in Atlantic City July 3 and 4, and has signed for two races in Chicago and two more in New York. He also states he hopes to do some riding this summer on the track at Coney Island. In a letter to his parents here Bill says he is in first-class shape, weighs around 220 pounds and enjoying every race he takes part in.

Following his victory in New York the Gotham press praised Peden for his brilliant performance. All of them stressed the tremendous strength and stamina displayed by the Victoria youngster.

Alfred Day has the following to say regarding Peden and how his victory was taken by Lester Patrick:

"The success of 'Torchy' Peden this week hardly comes as a surprise to Les Patrick, manager of the New York Rangers Hockey Club. In fact Patrick has been taunting this Hamilton thumper for about five years, as Peden comes from Victoria, where Lester's home is located. When Peden was a boy, Lester, the seventeen-year-old son of 'Muzz' will be right on his doorstep to learn about his six-day races. Young Patrick, for that matter, has ambitions to be a six-day rider himself. He has won many road races and already has many cups to show for his efforts as an amateur rider.

"I know," said Patrick, "that I would have to give the youngster only the slightest encouragement to have him hustling east for a try at the bikes. I'd rather have him enter the business world even though I owe everything I have to sports and I think it's a great game. Getting away from the Patricks, I'd like to say that I picked Peden as a comer five years ago. I talked about him to John Chapman at that time and while I don't know whether I had anything to do with his coming east, I have almost a fatherly interest in the youngster."

Alf Gould, champion of all six-day bike racers, had the following to say about Peden, following his New York victory: "Peden is one of the greatest six-day racers I have ever seen."

Willie Ratner, another New York sports writer, contributes the following:

"Peden was the outstanding star. His strength, confidence and ability to push a ninety-six-year bicycle all week and then ride it for the last hour when at any time during the six days, stamps him a star of the first water. Peden is the first rider to about ten years with the power to ride a ninety-six-year. The others use ninety-one and ninety-two. In the old days, Oscar Egg, Goulet, McNamara, Joe Popper and Eddie Root all rode ninety-six-year, but in their era fast starting was not necessary. In fact, all riders had to come to a full stop in front of their cot and be caught by a trainer before they could go out and relieve their partners. Nowadays, strong relief is the thing and quick turns are essential. That's what makes Peden's trick all the more noteworthy. He is so strong that a ninety-six-year doesn't hinder him in the least in getting away. And every time he rode up behind McNamara and shoved him, he automatically threw Reggie into 'high'. The small field during the last three days was in favor of Peden. It enabled him to set rolling on that bike, and never was the track ahead of him clattered with riders.

ALASKA DOG RACE TO-DAY

Five White Men and Nine Natives Drive Teams Over Frozen Wastes

Nome, Alaska, March 29.—Five white men and nine natives, with Al. Carey, defending champion, ready to battle again for his laurels, were preparing yesterday for the start of the gruelling Nome-Golovin dog race this morning.

With a distance of 156 miles to be covered, the teams were ready to start at three minutes intervals, beginning at 8 a.m. the event, the all-Alaska championship race, requires a twelve-hour stop over at Golovin before returning.

During the day here the weather was warm but not melting the snow, offering perfect conditions if the weather does not change. From points along the trail came word that it was in excellent condition.

In addition to Carey, last year's winner, the other white men entered were Dr. Brown, Ernest Buckmaster, Ed. Rohn and Charles Dexter. The natives were John Apodruk, Harold Latak, Wm. Allovak, Ed. Punguk, John Lask, Johnny Kaskak, Dave Henry, Fred Topkok and Ed. Walker.

One of the drivers who had planned to compete, Joe Stickman, who left Fairbanks some time ago to drive here, has been quarantined for fever.

With a prize of $1,000 and two others of $250 and $100 the race arouses wide interest throughout Alaska.

Joubert was clocked at 9.2-5 seconds for 100 yards in an effort last April, tying the recognized world record held by Eddie Tolon of the U.S. The mark was not allowed, however, when it was discovered the track had a drop of six inches from the start to the finish line.

The remainder of the South African squad will include Harry B. Hart in the shot put, discus, javelin, pole vault and broad jump; W. H. Waters in the 200 and 400-meter runs, R. O. Davies in the hurdles and H. A. Thompson in the 800 metres.

Marjorie Clark, a brilliant girl hurdler, will compete in the women's games.

A meeting of the Twelfth Baseball League will be held to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in the National Motor Company showroom.

All teams wishing to enter are requested to have their entries filed accompanied by the entrance fee of $5.

Through the splendid system originated this year all teams will have games each Saturday and every holiday, with the exception of the days on which the tourists are here and when Vancouver visits here for matches.

In addition to Cowichan, Wanderers, Albions, Incogs, Victoria and the Five C's, the senior teams in the league, Shawnigan and University Schools and Brentwood College will meet in what should be some excellent matches, which are included in the fixture list. Friendly games will be played on May 7. The following weeks the first knockout tournament will get under way. On May 21 the league schedule will be opened and will be followed on Victoria Day by a trial game for the Vancouver match on July 1.

Winnipeg Monarchs And Sudbury Wolves In Canadian Final

Meet Thursday Night at Winnipeg in First of Two-game Series for Dominion Junior Hockey Championship; Monarchs Stage Smashing Offensive in Second and Third Periods to Defeat Saskatoon Wesleys 3 to 1 to Capture Western Honors; Sudbury Turns Back Montreal 3 to 0 for Eastern Title

Winnipeg, March 29.—Winnipeg Monarchs, who were hand-picked last fall to become champions, successors to the disbanded Elmwood Millionaires, Memorial Cup holders, to-day are in the unusual position of having accomplished what was expected of them.

They are junior hockey champions of the west and defenders of the Canadian title, brought to Winnipeg a year ago by Millionaires. Thursday and Saturday nights they will attempt to beat off the challenge of Sudbury Wolves, eastern champions, in the Dominion finals.

Monarchs came from behind here yesterday evening to eliminate Saskatoon Wesleys, hustling hockey men who conquered the contending field in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, in the second game of their semi-final series. They overcame a deficit of one goal, resulting from the 1 to 0 beating they took a week before at Saskatoon, and downed Wesleys 3 to 1, with a power-drive that started early in the second period and never let up until the finish.

Wesleys made a furious bid for a place in the Canadian finals. Less than two minutes after the game started they marked up a goal that gave them a margin of two on the round. But they wilted when Monarchs returned that early charge with two goals in the second session, and they were soundly whipped long before the final whistle. In the third period, Clayton Crosby rapped in Saskatoon's lone goal. In the second period George Brown and Lee Makarski netted Monarchs scores and Shewan's third-minute master was a decisive blow. The western champions include four stars who performed last spring with Woodwards. Brown, Norm Yellowless, and Archie Creighton formed the second-string millionaire front line and Art Rice-Jones, lanky net-minder, did goal duty.

Toronto, March 29.—A fighting young band of hockeyists, Sudbury Wolves, are to-day headed for Winnipeg in quest of the Memorial Cup and the Dominion hockey championship laurels. While 11,000 wildly excited fans jammed Maple Leaf Gardens yesterday evening, Wolves trounced Montreal Winged Wheelers 3 to 0, and emerged with the eastern Canadian Junior title.

A 1 to 1 tie in Montreal last week enabled the young speedsters from northern Ontario to capture the two-game round 4 to 1, and advance into the Memorial Cup final against Winnipeg Monarchs, Junior representatives of the west. The first of the two-of-three game series is carded for the western team Thursday.

N.Y. SWIMMERS CAPTURE MEET

Defeat Combined Los Angeles-Hollywood Team; Two Records Established

New York, March 29.—A record-breaking victory in the 300-yard medley relay enabled the New York A.C. to defeat the combined Los Angeles A.C. and Hollywood A.C. swimming team in a dual meet here yesterday evening.

The New York trio of George Kolac, back stroke; Leonard Spence, breast stroke; and Walter Spence, free style, won the medley relay, the final event, in 3 minutes 21-5 seconds, compared with the American record of 3:05-3 set by the Illinois A.C. in 1928.

A U.S. record also was bettered in the 400-yard relay which the New York A.C. won in 3:32-4-10. The former record of 3:34-9-10 was set last year by a New York A.C. quartette.

In the individual events the visitors split even. Buster Crabbe won the 500-yard free style for the westerners, Malola Kallil accounted for the 200-yard free style, and Mickey Riley for the fancy dive. Riley was conceded first place in the dive when the New York A.C. failed to put up an opponent in this event.

Six N.H.L. Teams To Resume Play-off Struggles To-night

Lester Patrick's New York Rangers Favored to Eliminate World Champion Canadiens From Further Competition; Toronto Expected to Overcome One-goal Lead of Chicago Black Hawks; Montreal and Detroit Expected to Put on Great Sudden-death Battle

Toronto, March 29.—The hockey spotlight will flash on teams of the National Hockey League to-day when the six qualifying clubs resume conflict in the league championship series and Stanley Cup play-offs.

Montreal's world champion Canadiens, although fighting against heavy odds, will seek to reverse the 1-to-0 setback suffered in the third game of their play-off series against Rangers at New York Sunday. Even though at home, Montreal Maroons are faced with a hard assignment when they enter the second game of their series with Detroit on even terms. Toronto's Maple Leafs enter their final game against Chicago one goal down and must overcome the lead to continue in the Stanley Cup playdowns.

Conceded better than an even chance of capturing the Stanley Cup, sentimentalists of the world professional hockey championship, for the third successive year when they entered the playdowns, Canadiens have met with ill luck. A single defeat will now eliminate them from further contention, while they are faced with the task of winning two straight games from Rangers to remain in the hunt for the honor.

Sprague Cleghorn's Maroons appear to have the edge over Falcons in the other scheduled tilt. The Montrealers, who finished the regular schedule in excellent shape, are looked to be in championship form and the hope is out they are the team to beat for the coveted mug.

Falcons will have their say in the question, however, as they were defeated by a sudden-death game, the first match ending in a 1 to 1 deadlock.

LONDON WILL MEET BUFFALO

Clash To-night in Opening Games of International Hockey League Play-offs

Toronto, March 29.—With the battle lines drawn along two fronts and a championship to the main objective, the four leading teams of the International Hockey League to-day were awaiting only the siren which will launch the "big push" to-night.

The play-offs get under way simultaneously at Detroit and Port Huron, Ont., with Buffalo Bisons opposite London Tecumsehs at Port Erie, and Windsor Bulldogs invading the home camp of Detroit Olympians. The series is a home-and-home affair and the winner will be determined by the number of points acquired in the six games.

The points will be allotted on the basis of three for a win and one point to each team deadlocked after one minute overtime period of a game. The schedule for the series follows: March 29—London at Buffalo, Windsor at Detroit. April 2—Windsor at Buffalo, April 3—London at Detroit. April 5—Detroit at Windsor, Buffalo at London. April 7—Detroit at Buffalo, Windsor at London. April 9—London at Windsor. April 10—Buffalo at Detroit.

EXHIBITION BASEBALL

San Francisco—New York's Giants got in some healthy batting practice yesterday when they opened an exhibition series here by defeating the San Francisco Seals, 22 to 12.

Savannah, Ga.—Although going splendidly pitching, the Boston Red Sox were unable to hit their minor league twirler yesterday, and they dropped the opening tilt of a six-game series with the Newark Bears of the International loop, 6 to 3.

Philadelphia—The Philadelphia Athletics said farewell to Port Myers and the 1932 training season here by dropping a game to the Boston Braves yesterday, 4 to 2.

Los Angeles—Detroit and Pittsburgh fought thirteen innings yesterday before the Pirates won, 5 to 4.

Avon Park, Fla.—Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, the St. Louis Cardinal's eccentric right-hander pitching recruit, showed the class which made him the hurling sensation of the Texas League last season when he blanked the House of David team in the five innings he was on the mound. The card won, 3 to 1.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Philadelphia Athletics defeated Atlanta of the Southern Association, 5 to 2, yesterday in the first of four exhibition baseball games.

Dallas, Texas—The Chicago White Sox rallied in the seventh inning to bombard Gray Adkins and Otho Nicholas for six runs and defeat the Dallas Steers yesterday, 9 to 4.

N.H.L. SCORING RECORDS GIVEN

Harvey Jackson, Toronto, Has Fifty-three Points, Official Figures Show

Primeau Second and Morenz Third; Bill Cook and C. Conacher Tie For Fourth

Montreal, March 29.—To Harvey Jackson, left wing player of the Toronto Maple Leafs, and also left winger of the mythical Canadian Press all-star team, won the scoring honors of the 1931-32 season of the National Hockey League.

Jackson scored twenty-eight goals and gave twenty-five assists during the forty-eight-game schedule, to earn a total of fifty-three points, more than his teammate and nearest rival, Joe Primeau, who with thirteen goals, thirty-seven assists, gave him fifty points. Final scoring and penalty statistics were exactly the same total.

Third place went to Howie Morenz, centre of Montreal Canadiens, who finished the season with a rush to displace Charlie Conacher of Los Angeles and Bill Cook of New York Rangers for the position. Morenz amassed twelve points in the last week of the schedule, and scored twenty-four goals and twenty-five assists during the year for forty-nine points.

Bill Cook and Charlie Conacher were put a point behind. Cook scored thirty-four goals, fourteen assists, for forty-eight points, and Charlie Conacher's pointage was exactly the same. Cook and Conacher thus lead the entire league in actual goals scored.

Players in the Canadian division overhauled the United States section. Bill Cook was the only member of the United States teams to score more than forty points, whereas six of the Canadians managed to pass that total. They were Jackson, Primeau, Morenz, Charlie Conacher, Dave Trotter and Hooley Smith, of Maroons. Trotter scored twenty-six goals, eighteen assists for forty-four points, and Smith achieved the same total with eleven goals, thirty-three assists.

Second to Cook in the United States section came "Dix" Clapper, Boston, with seventeen goals, twenty-two assists, thirty-nine points. Dillon, the New York Ranger sensation, was third with twenty-three goals, fifteen assists, thirty-eight points, tied with Barry Boston, with twenty-one, seventeen.

The highest scorers for the New York Americans were Hines and McVeigh, who placed thirteenth and fourteenth, respectively, in the Canadian division. Hines had seven goals, twenty-one assists, twenty-eight points, and McVeigh, twelve goals, fifteen assists, twenty-seven points.

THE "BAD" MEN
New York teams easily captured the doubtful honor of having the "bad" men in their ranks. "Red" Dutton, of the Americans, headed the parade with 107 minutes in penalties, closely followed by "Ching" Johnson, of Rangers, with 105.

Mrs. George Lott
Granted Divorce

Philadelphia, March 29.—George Lott, Davis Cup tennis star, to-day was free from the bonds of matrimony after the granting of a divorce to Mrs. A. Allen Lott, whom he married in an elopement to Elktion, N.D., in October 1920. Ground for the divorce, granted yesterday, were not revealed.

Scottish Smash Way To City Rugby Championship

Defeat Stubbhorn Navy Rugger In Gruelling Final

Tries by Hocking and Campbell Forbes Give Militiamen Third Straight Senior Title and Barnard Cup in 6-0 Win; Both Squads Put Up Great Battle Before 1,300 Spectators; Troops' Defence Unbeatable

While the regiment's tartan-clad pipe band played "The Cock o' the North," Canadian Scottish rugger, senior city champions in 1930 and 1931, fought their way to a 6-to-0 victory over a stubborn, hard-hitting Navy fifteen for their third successive triumph in the Barnard Cup final at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday. A crowd of about 1,300 saw the fighting Highlanders wrench the game from their worthy opponents in a match that was exciting from start to finish.

With both teams battling all the way, the result was in doubt until the last minute, when Campbell Forbes broke away for a beautiful try to clinch the victory after Hocking, intermediate wing three, had completed a Scottish backfield movement for their first try twenty-four minutes from the start.

Both squads put up splendid defences. A brass band serenaded the sailors, but its music seemed less potent than the skirling of the snare-drums.

Bruce Forbes dribbled down from the return kick at the start as the Scottish opened play with the wind and sun behind them. The Navy three secured and swept up the field. Bamfield ended the run with a pretty punt to the Scottish thirty-five-yard line.

The sailors rushed back when the troops cleared, the blue-jackets forwards warming down on a mass dribble.

MAY INJURED

Ted May, Scottish forward, was injured in the eye and forced from the field until early in the second half. Bryden cleared a smashing Navy attack but Ken Adams led the tars back. Bill Porteous secured and broke away on a pretty run to gain the clansmen's five-yard line, where he passed forward.

From a scrum there, the militiamen gained a free kick to clear, when the Navy played feet up.

Robinson returned the kick with a punt to the troops' forty-five-yard line. Campbell Forbes kicked to the Navy twenty-five to relieve pressure, but Robinson returned.

On a loose dribble the Highlanders went down to the tars' twenty-five, following a nice punt by Henderson. Bruce and Campbell Forbes broke on a dribble but were called back for offence when they neared the Navy line.

On a loose dribble from the start, Campbell Forbes took a free kick from well out, but his attempt for goal went wide. The Scots held their advantage, smashing away at the tars' line. Rowland dropped Bamfield five yards out.

The sailors uncorked a good attack from the kick-off but Bryden, secured to punt down to the Navy twenty-five. He followed up with Rowland to drop Robinson behind the back could clear. The Scots held their advantage, smashing away at the tars' line. Rowland dropped Bamfield five yards out.

ARCADES RALLY TO TAKE TITLE

Drop First Two Games in Tenpin Playoff But Win Last Three

In one of the most thrilling play-offs of recent years Arcades defeated The Times three games to two and won the senior tenpin title at the Olympic Alley yesterday evening. A large crowd watched the match.

The Arcades dropped the first two games to The Times and appeared to have only a hundred-to-one chance of winning the honors. Aided by some sterling rolling on the part of John Quinn and Ron Wilson they took the third and then followed this up by capturing the next two.

Quinn of the Arcades was high man for the night, rolling 1,002 pins, an average of 200. Wilson had 985. The scores by games were: Arcades, 558, 604, 960, 973, 979, total, 4,774; team average 189. Times, 904, 1,015, 830, 860, 912, total, 4,601; team average 184.

The fifth game proved unusually exciting and it was not until the sixth frame that the big break came in the form of a number of "blows" for The Times players and a couple of "doubles" for Arcades men.

Individual scores were: Arcades—R. Wilson, 988; A. Falk, 920; A. Ridgell, 896; J. Quinn, 1,002; A. Porter, 920.

Times—B. Norris, 930; S. Jenkins, 856; E. Stewart, 906; A. Hawkins, 956; L. Fox, 961.

Frisch Last of Head-First Sliders

By AL DEMAREE

Frank Frisch, the captain of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, is not only the best base-runner in the National League, with the possible exception of Kiki Cuyler of the Chicago Cubs, but he is also the last of the old-time "head-first" sliders.

John McGraw, Hal Chase, Dode Pasker and many other great base-runners always dove head first at the bag when stealing. But the art gradually disappeared and only Frisch is left. Perhaps Ty Cobb's famous hook slide, with spikes intimidating the baseman, hastened the head-first plunge into oblivion, and made it unpopular with the modern base-runner.

Some of the old-time base-runners, McGraw in particular, always carried a small leather glove in their hip-pocket, that they put on their right hand when they reached first base. They used this in groping for the bag. Maybe with the new dander ball, some of the old-time tricks and color will creep back into the old game.

An outfielder may even throw a runner out at the plate.

Detroit Purchases Minor Loop Catcher

Detroit, March 28.—The Detroit baseball club management yesterday announced the outright purchase of catcher George Sauer from Beaumont of the Texas league.

At the same time it was announced that recruit catcher Hugh Wise, former Purdue University baseball track star, would figure in a deal now pending, but neither the identity of the player sought nor the club with whom negotiations are in progress was revealed.

The universal warning against swaying the body on the swing leads many to the impression that no part of the body should sway. This is a mistake which ties up many beginners at the game, for, in their efforts to guard against the fault, they obtain a rigidity which makes a feeble thing of the swing.

The truth is that some very fine golfers sway markedly, while every golfer sways a bit, as the above drawing of MacDonald Smith, who certainly represents the greatest possible perfection in style, illustrates. However, this movement is confined almost entirely to the shoulders and head. The centre of the body is not disturbed, but they have to come through with that final application of weight which gives the ball distance.

Study the drawings, which show that "Mac" Smith's hips are the hub of his swing, remaining definitely inside two planes. Merely turning the body starts the backswing. The club head comes back with the body until the top of the swing is reached, when the straight left brings it down again.

Unless you understand the pivot you cannot hope to shoot good golf. Sol Metzger has an illustrated leaflet on "The Pivot," which he will send to any reader requesting it. Send stamped, addressed envelope. Address Sol Metzger in care of this paper.

"FLICK" HOCKEY INVADES ENGLAND

Enter's Special To The Victoria Times—London—A new game is rapidly becoming the rage with anyone who has a hockey stick. It is called Flick Hockey.

This is actually improvised hockey which can be played in a fairly large room or hall. Points to its advantage are that one's not to pay entrance fees or make expensive journeys to a distant pitch; and weather being of no account a good fast game can be had without the usual muddy result.

The team consists of six a side: one back, half and three forwards. This number can easily be reduced if space is limited.

As the name of the game indicates, the ball is flicked on all occasions; no hitting of the ball is allowed nor scooping or hooking of sticks. There must be flicking and nothing more except in the case of the back, who, when defending his goal within the circle, may use his feet in stopping a short off-side.

The rules are: End and side walls are used for "behind" and "touch" respectively. "Behind"—The ball is flicked into play from the back from within the circle.

"Touch"—The ball is flicked into play by the half, standing about a yard in. As an alternative to touch play off-side walls if suitable. This considerably speeds up the game.

Goals and other rules are as in hockey.

To prevent crowding on the ball, especially when there is little floor space, the back and halves should not be allowed to cross the half-way line.

Half way lines and circles must be marked out on the chalk.

The size of the circle can be reduced in accordance with width of hall. The goals are made from three-inch by two-inch wood in the form of a frame with wire netting at the back and sides. It stands three feet from the ground and is 3 feet 6 inches wide. The circle is six yards out direct from the goal line.

Two B.C. Rugger Finals Scheduled In Victoria Soon

Final Arrangements for Rounsfell and Province Cup Games Being Completed; Scottish to Battle Either Rowing Club or Ex-King George for Senior Club Honors; Victoria College Expected to Defend Intermediate Laurels Against North Shore All-Blacks

History will repeat itself, from the local angle at least, when Victoria senior and intermediate rugby teams clash with Vancouver representatives for the provincial titles, represented by the Rounsfell and Province Cups, respectively. Victoria College, holders of the latter for several years, is expected to stack up against the North Shore All-Blacks at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday in defence of their laurels. A week from that day, Canadian Scottish, who captured the city title yesterday, will most probably face the winners of the Rowing Club-Ex-King George Vancouver final to try to settle the argument regarding the residence of the silverware.

When the Scots battled the ex-Kings last year, the match was drawn and the two squads shared possession of the trophy.

With the McKeechie Cup, "Big Three" prized award scheduled for shipment to the Capital and the Province Cup virtually a fixture on the Craigdarroch mantle, followers of the game are hoping to see the Rounsfell prize join the other two major provincial trophies in the showrooms of Victoria clubs.

But if the two "mugs" are to be lodged in the city, the Scots and College will have to put up exceptionally good fights, it is understood.

WERE IN FIRST DIVISION

The North Shore All-Blacks, who are expected to try to wrest the Province trophy from the local students, are reported to be an exceptionally strong and heavy team. They have played in the Vancouver First Division, but recently went back into the second. However, College should be able to retain the laurels.

Whether the Rowing Club or ex-Kings capture the Vancouver senior city championship, the Canadian Scottish will face exceptionally strong opposition. Both teams contributed largely to the Canadian All-Star Japan squad and are renowned for their speed, effective backfield work and illusive George Niblo, tricky inside three-quarter, is the leader of the ex-Kings while Len Leroy, rated here as one of the best three that have ever operated on a Vancouver team, is one of the corner men of the Rowing Club. Both have formidable fifteen lined up and should give the Highlanders all they can handle.

"Soft" games will be played in Victoria, since the union feels the small number of spectators who usually turn out in Vancouver will be far outdone by local crowds.

The "Nice" Girl a Pearl of Price—Pitiful Couple Whom Debt Has Kept From Happiness. Sage Advice to Girl Trying to Forget Lost Love

DEAR MISS DIX—What is a "nice" girl? I know a girl who is good company and that I like very much, although she neither drinks, smokes, pets nor listens to questionable stories. She does not want to be kissed and she will not let me put my arm around her when we ride in a car. She thinks a "nice" girl does not go in for these things. Her charm seems to lie in her evasiveness. What is your definition of a "nice" girl? O.D.

Answer—It seems to me that your friend gives a pretty good living illustration of a "nice" girl and also that you furnish the almost invariable masculine reaction to the "nice" girl.

Which is that her evasiveness charms you. It is an allure that leads you on. The more she refuses to kiss you the more your desire for her lips. The more she refuses to pet, the more do you feel that it would be a triumph to win her. It is the old story of the man being willing to break his neck to get the peach that hangs highest on the tree, and disdaining the one that is so ripe it falls into his mouth.

I often think what a pity it is that girls refuse to recognize this simple fact in masculine psychology—that the harder a thing is to get the more men want it. If diamonds were as common as pebbles on the beach no man would pick one up. It is because he has to work and sweat and save and plan to get one of the shiny little stones that he values it.

And it is the same way with women. Girls make a fatal mistake when they make themselves cheap to men. No man wants the girl who runs after him. No man gets a thrill out of the kisses that he can have for the taking. No man even sets any store on the love that is offered him free, gratis, for nothing. The women who are valued are always the women who held themselves high and whom men had a hard time winning.

As I said, my idea of a "nice" girl is one very much like your friend. She has her maidenly reserve. She does not let every Tom, Dick and Harry paw her over. She does not pay for every courtesy a boy shows her with caresses. She is saving her kisses for the man she loves.

She does not drink because she knows that under the influence of liquor girls do things that they spend the balance of their lives repenting. She does not tell dirty stories because her mind is clean. She does not pet in parked automobiles nor come into a night club at hours that scandalize the neighbors because she knows that it is not enough for a girl to be good. She has to look good to other people, and that once her reputation is destroyed all the king's horses and all the king's men cannot build it up again.

A nice girl dresses as well as she can afford, but she wears conservative clothes and not such as make her conspicuous. And in public places she demurely herself modestly. She is never one of the boisterous ones that make whoopee. She aids nature where it is needed by artifice, but she does not plaster on her make-up as if she were painting a barn door, nor put so much lipstick on that her mouth looks like a clown's.

The nice girl is nice to other girls. She never says catty things. She never tries to steal their dates. She never envies their good fortune. She is nice to older women, even the ones who have not sons, and she is nice to her own family. She doesn't expect her mother to be her slave and her father to be just a money-bag for her. She does not grab all of the best of everything for herself and monopolize all the good clothes in the family and the automobile and the parlor.

The nice girl is nice to boys but she does not chase them down. She shows that she is pleased at their attentions, but she does not throw fits or "prattles" every time any little thing a fellow notices her. She never calls boys up and tries to make dates with them or telephones them during business hours. And when she corresponds with a boy, she writes the kind of letters that she would not object to his mother and sister reading.

A mighty nice thing is a nice girl. If you have found one, son, treasure her. She is a pearl of price.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My husband and I have been married three years and have two very small children. My husband is a teacher and makes a fairly decent salary but we are in debt and get farther in all the time. Naturally my husband is worried and he is subject to sudden outbursts of nerves and temper, and when things go wrong he tells me that he wishes he had his freedom back and what a fool he was to have married, and he has even told me that he wishes I would quit him. I love him and I believe he loves me and the children, although he does not show it. I work hard, am a good manager and try to do everything possible to make a peaceful and happy home. I want more than anything else a close companionship with my husband, but somehow we have missed this. Wherein have I failed? ANXIOUS.

Do not blame yourself because your marriage has not brought you and your husband the happiness you hoped for. It is not you who have failed. It is human nature that has failed because it did not have the strength to stand the grueling test that poverty and anxiety and worry over debts has put upon love.

Thousands upon thousands of marriages fail that would have been happy if only they could have been adequately financed. That is why I am forever urging young people not to rush into matrimony until they have some way of making a living that will enable them to exist in some sort of decent comfort, and not have their nerves torn to tatters by the howling of the wolf at their doors.

Of course, love should not have a price tag on it, but unfortunately it has. People who are harassed by the bill collector and who do not know where the next meal is coming from are not concerned with the state of their affections. They are thinking only about the state of their pocket-books. Those who are hungry are not yearning for kisses, they are longing for beef steaks and onions. Even parenthood has to be put off until the coming of children, that should be the greatest joy that can come to a home, becomes a tragedy when there is not money enough to care for them.

The thing that is the matter with your husband is lack of money, not lack of love for you or the children. It is the lack of money that makes domesticity a burden under which his courage withers and his strength fails. If he were a better sport he would not take out on you his folly of marrying before he was ready for it but you may well pity him as you do for the agony he is enduring in being crushed by his load of debt and his hopelessness when he looks to the future.

The only remedy for your situation is for you to be parted from your husband for a little while so that he may get a perspective upon how fine and brave you are, and realize how much he loves you and the children, and that you and they are his only solace in his misfortune.

DEAR MISS DIX—I was very much in love with a man to whom I was engaged and was sure of his affection. However, one day right out of a clear sky he told me that he had fallen in love with another girl, and that he cared for me only as a pal. Of course, I told him that it was all right, that his happiness was all that I cared about. That happened five years ago and I love him still. Is there any way I can forget and secure peace of mind? SUNSHINE.

Answer—You can't reason with love, nor can you make your heart behave itself and bestow or withdraw its affections at your behest.

But this is to be said: With women, at least, love is mainly self-hypnotism. They create the man they love out of their own fancies, and they nourish even a hopeless passion by dwelling on it and idealizing it, thinking of what might have been.

So the best cure for love is to put it out of your mind. Keep busy. Have as many interests as possible, and when you find your thoughts turning toward your lost love, wrench them away. Use all of your will power and you can do it.

DOROTHY DIX.

Visits in Spain

II—THE ALHAMBRA AND GIBRALTAR
Up to the year 1892, Spain had an excellent "leaning tower," but it leaned so well that it had to be taken down, lest it should fall on someone. That tower was built before the death of Columbus, and it stood—or leaned—for 396 years.
A more important building—the Alhambra—still stands in Spain. It dates back more than 600 years. The name "Alhambra" comes from Arabic words, meaning "the Red Castle." It is, indeed, a castle, and in days of old it was the home of Moorish kings.
Thirteen towers rise from Alhambra, and there are heavy walls between the towers. The castle covers thirty-five acres of ground, on a hill outside the city of Granada.

Although it has been injured by an earthquake, by a fire, and by the French (who blew up eight towers), the Alhambra is still in fairly good condition. Thousands of foreign visitors come to see it every year, and they marvel at the beauty of the halls and courtyards formed by the olden Moors.
The Moors invaded Spain in the year 711. They conquered almost all of the country, and remained for more than seven centuries. Just before Columbus made his first trip across the broad Atlantic, the Moors were driven back to Africa.
Jutting out from the coast of southern Spain is a high rocky point known as the Rock of Gibraltar. If we could believe a fable told by ancient Greeks, this rock is one of the giant pillars set up by Hercules. Another "Pillar of Hercules" is across the Strait of Gibraltar.
The Rock of Gibraltar is owned by Great Britain, and supports a British fort. Near the base of the rock is the town of Gibraltar which contains people of English, Italian, Spanish, Jewish and Moorish blood. Counting British soldiers, there are about 21,000 persons at Gibraltar.

Politicians In Duel With Swords

Buenos Aires, March 28—Jose B. Abalos, former Minister of Public Works in the administration of Hipolito Yrigoyen, and Enrique Martinez, another Yrigoyenista, fought a duel with swords at Cordoba City yesterday. Martinez was cut on both cheeks, but Abalos was not harmed. The men were not reconciled.
Abalos had challenged Martinez, a former Vice-president and for twenty-four hours President of the Republic, on the eve of the resolution which deposed Yrigoyen, over a political manifesto.

Visits in Spain

II—THE ALHAMBRA AND GIBRALTAR
Up to the year 1892, Spain had an excellent "leaning tower," but it leaned so well that it had to be taken down, lest it should fall on someone. That tower was built before the death of Columbus, and it stood—or leaned—for 396 years.
A more important building—the Alhambra—still stands in Spain. It dates back more than 600 years. The name "Alhambra" comes from Arabic words, meaning "the Red Castle." It is, indeed, a castle, and in days of old it was the home of Moorish kings.
Thirteen towers rise from Alhambra, and there are heavy walls between the towers. The castle covers thirty-five acres of ground, on a hill outside the city of Granada.

Although it has been injured by an earthquake, by a fire, and by the French (who blew up eight towers), the Alhambra is still in fairly good condition. Thousands of foreign visitors come to see it every year, and they marvel at the beauty of the halls and courtyards formed by the olden Moors.
